14 Per Cent
Of Quota Is Subscribed

COMMUNITY Chest division leaders reported $9,035 in cash and pledges collected so far yesterday afternoon at the Chest's first regular report meeting.

The figure represents nearly 14 per cent of the $66,520 Chest goal for 1954-55, according to Walter Wyckoff, campaign chairman.

The Chest campaign is now officially in its second week. A kickoff dinner-program, given by a civic-minded resident without cost to the Chest, was held on Monday, Sept. 27.

Division captains attending yesterday's meeting expressed a belief that a better indication of "how the Chest drive is going" could be given at the next report meeting next week.

William Wells, in charge of Stroudsburg trades division solicitation, reported that his organization was functioning well and that the drive for funds itself "seems to be going quite well so far."

Wells said that his organization had made every effort to "get workers for the Chest who were interested in the work done by the 12 Chest agencies." The plan was "working out well," he said.

Francis Shinn, resorts division chairman, told Chest leaders that he is now beginning the final phases of the campaign in that area. Shinn said he plans to visit large resorts and hotels in the area this week.

Leon Koster, speaking for the East Stroudsburg trades division collection, said solicitations in that borough's business houses will be made this week and next week. Koster indicated he would be able to give a more thorough report at the next report meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 12.

J. Nelson Westbrook, professional division, said workers in that division had turned in good reports from those areas visited. A more complete listing of professional solicitations could be made in a week or so, Westbrook indicated.

A discussion of the campaign brought forth constructive suggestions from several of those attending the meeting.

Shinn told the meeting that he feels every man and woman in Monroe County should be reminded that the success of the Community Chest "depends on you" and not "someone else." The resort captain said he was emphasizing this in his solicitation.

Shinn commended radio station WVPO and Joseph Webster for the work done on the air in the field of interviews with agency heads and other Chest spokesmen. He said Webster's interviews were "terrific" and "straightforward" and singled out the appearance of John Wilson, YMCA general secretary for special praise in the series.

Chairman Wyckoff emphasized the great value of the "20 Questions" pamphlet drawn up by Ethel West, Chest executive secretary and also praised the publicity being done by Webster and WVPO. Wyckoff also expressed gratitude to Horace Heller, editor of The Daily Record, for editorials in support of the Community Chest.

Wyckoff set the date for the next report meeting for Oct. 12 in the Penn-Stroud at 4 p.m. All division leaders were asked to attend the meeting.

Those in attendance yesterday were Wells, Wyckoff, Shinn, Miss West, Westbrook, Koster and Elton Hall, president of the Community Chest board this year.

Ike May Heed Party Chiefs

DENVER, Oct. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower today called Republican congressional leaders to a political strategy conference here Friday amid signs he may heed party chiefs and step up his personal campaign for election of a GOP Congress.

The Denver White House announced the chief executive and a group of top Republicans in the legislative branch will meet about two hours in advance of the President's nationwide radio-television campaign address Friday night (9:30 p.m., EST).

The leaders and Vice President Nixon, who also will be on the coast to coast program, all are scheduled to be on the speakers platform with Eisenhower at a big political rally in Municipal Auditorium here. The broadcast will originate from the 6,000-seat auditorium.

Eisenhower aides are saying the President's address will be his hardest hitting effort of the campaign—tailored on the basis of increasing reports from GOP leaders that the party faces a "tough fight" to maintain control of Congress.

The latest such report was put before the President today by Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. But Simpson said after a meeting with Eisenhower that while the going will be rough, he looks for the party to gain 15 to 20 seats in the House.

Police Called To Stony Mountain In Search For Daniel Falcone, Wanted In Double Slaying

PALMERTON—The search for Daniel Falcone continued yesterday with police receiving a tip that the man had been seen "climbing Stony Mountain" near Little Gap.

Falcone, 48, is wanted for questioning in the double slaying of Peace Justice Matthew Daneker and his wife Mildred. They were shot Sunday night on the steps of Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church.

A resident of Bangor, Falcone was a foreman in the shirt factory where Mrs. Daneker was also employed. His car was found abandoned near the church. A new gun case—but no gun—was found in it.

Although police still have not publicly stated a motive for the slaying, the search for the assailant has centered on Falcone.

Palmerton borough police received the tip yesterday afternoon that a man answering Falcone's description had been seen climbing Stony Mountain. An investigation and search of the area was started immediately and continued into the night with borough and State police taking part.

In Bangor, police reported they had been getting "no tips at all" concerning Falcone's whereabouts.

Falcone has lived in Bangor many years and, for a period, was active in politics there. For two years—in 1936 to 1938—he was a member of the Bangor Borough Council, representing the Fourth Ward.

Earlier he served one year, in 1922, as a State policeman. He spent three years in the U. S. Army during World War Two and had been employed by Bangor shirt factories for many years.

At the time of the shooting, he was employed as a foreman in the Palmer Shirt Co. factory in Palmerton. He had been with the Palmer firm the past two years.

Falcone once served a prison term in Northampton County, records show. In 1944 he began serving an 18-months sentence in default of security bond for a support order issued by the county court.

Twice married and twice divorced, Falcone had recently been making weekly payments to the Northampton County domestic relations office for the support of a minor daughter.

According to officials at that office the latest five dollar support payment had been mailed to them on Friday, Oct. 1. It arrived at the office on Monday—the morning after the double slaying.

This current payment gave Falcone a $71.39 "credit in account," the office said—meaning that he was that amount ahead of the required payments.

The payments have been made, the office said, since 1938 when Falcone and his second wife, the former Rose Finelli, were separated. Falcone had previously been married to the former Genevieve Ronco, Bangor, now reportedly living in Texas.

U. N. Urged To Study Soviet Plan

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—The U. N. Steering Committee recommended today that the General Assembly consider Moscow's new plan for atomic control.

This action was taken without a record vote at a short meeting of the committee as Russian sources let it be known Moscow still stands for prohibition of the atomic and hydrogen bombs immediately and before any system of control is established.

These developments came as Yugoslavia's foreign minister, Koca Popovic, waxing optimistic with the solution of the Trieste dispute with Italy, called on the East and West to abandon cold war policies and try a new approach to international cooperation. He said lessening of world tension had created the proper atmosphere for such a move.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. offered no objection when Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky asked the Steering Committee to recommend Assembly action on the Russian atomic plan, but before the Assembly last Thursday by Vishinsky after a long attack on the United States.

Vishinsky also asked that his proposal be treated as a separate item, but Lodge balked. He and Henri Hoppenot, France, said it should be taken up concurrently with the report of the Disarmament Commission, which is slated to be first on the agenda of the Political Committee.

This would give consideration to the Moscow plan before the committee takes up President Eisenhower's atomics for peace plan, which Lodge will handle for the President. But Lodge wants the Eisenhower plan to be a separate item and appears willing to let the Russian item move on and off the stage before he turns to the American plan.

The Steering Committee decided 9-2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia) to postpone action for a few days on a Russian proposal that the Assembly consider Soviet charges of "piracy" in the China Sea. T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China, said France had offered its good offices to seek a settlement. Syria proposed that Israel be thrown out of the U. N. unless it heeds an Assembly resolution on the partition of Palestine.

Gold-Making Hoax Bared With Arrest

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 5 (AP)—A $30,000 windmill carried out a "gold-making machine" that was actually an ancient confidence game in atomic trappings was reported today by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

They estimated at least 30 Manitobans were taken in and said one man is under arrest. By the police account:

Useless machines were sold for sums ranging up to $2,500, with the seller retaining a partnership.

The units were box-shaped, about three feet deep. Around the inside of each box was a row of thin test tubes containing a dark grey material. This material was supposed to protect the operators from radioactive rays.

A second row of larger tubes surrounded a container for plaster of paris moulds which buyers were told were filled with a secret compound that had to be heated by radioactive rays for 18 hours before it turned into gold. Actually each mould held a small gold pellet made from gold foil.

Every day the seller would bring the partners 40 of the sealed moulds which would be inserted in the machines for a day's baking. The following morning he would return, crack open the moulds and extract a small nugget from each and take them back to his office.

For a week or so he would bring his partners about $12 daily as their share of the proceeds. Then he would stop making cash payments and give receipts for shares in the gold, to be redeemed at a later date. The most any one man received back was $150.

Fire Destroys Old Landmark At Tobyhanna

TOBYHANNA — A century-old landmark—the McGinty health farm house—burned down last night.

Volunteer firemen from Tobyhanna were called to the scene at 11:15 p. m. When firemen arrived the three-story stone building was already completely gutted.

The building's stone frame stood, charred and blistering-hot, but nearly intact, firemen reported. It had been vacant the past seven years.

The building once served as headquarters for a Dr. McGinty who specialized in the treatment of alcoholic diseases. It was believed to be more than 100 years old, residents of the area said.

Firemen from the Tobyhanna Volunteer Fire Co. and one truck from the nearby Tobyhanna Signal Depot Fire Co. prevented the spread of the flames to a shed and woods nearby.

Firemen said the building was probably a total loss with the exception of the stones which withstood the blaze.

Seven Indicted On Charge Of Operating Still

SCRANTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A Wayne County grand jury today indicted seven on charges of participating in the operation of an illegal alcohol distillery in Paupack Twp.

Those indicted were Leroy Roetzell, 39, Newark, N. J.; John Fetzer, 44, Lords Valley, Pike County; Thomas Richards, 40, Lords Valley; Edward L. Eggenberger Jr., 27, Lakeville, Wayne County; Edward L. Eggenberger Sr., Lackawaxen, Pike County; James A. Destefano, identified as a New Jersey resident, and Thomas Richards Sr., Lords Valley.

Destefano and the senior Richards also were indicted as fugitives from justice.

Marilyn Monroe Files Suit To Divorce Joe; Both In Seclusion In Beverly Hills Home

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, bedded upstairs with emotional upset and a virus, sued Joe DiMaggio for divorce today while the former baseball hero made himself comfortable downstairs in the home they still share.

The suit, filed in nearby Santa Monica through her attorney, charged mental cruelty but cited no specific instances.

The former star outfielder of the New York Yankees caused the screen's No. 1 box office attraction "grave mental suffering and anguish" through no fault of hers, the action said.

Both the principals have been in seclusion in their English-style Beverly Hills home since Miss Monroe surprised Hollywood with the news of their breakup yesterday.

The actress' attorney, Jerry Giesler, held an hour and a half conference with Miss Monroe today and later reported her "upset physically and emotionally."

When he served the divorce papers on DiMaggio in the downstairs living room the ex-athlete accepted them "very complacently and very decently," Giesler said.

The attorney told newsmen there is no need for a property settlement "because there is no property involved. What she has earned is hers. What he has earned is his."

If DiMaggio decides not to contest the divorce it could go to trial in six weeks, Giesler said. If he contests it the trial might be months away.

Architect Tells Of Paying Ousted FHA Chief $10,000 To Approve Loan Increase

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A Washington architect testified today Clyde L. Powell demanded and was paid $10,000 in cash to approve a $709,000 increase in the FHA loan commitment on a Negro apartment project here.

The testimony by Albert I. Cassel, who said he made the payment, was the first in six months of hearings before the Senate Banking Committee to include mention of direct demands for money by any government housing official, although numerous irregularities have been charged.

Powell, who was ousted last April as director of rental housing for the Federal Housing Administration, took the stand a short time later and refused for the third time to answer any questions. He again claimed his constitutional right under the Fifth Amendment to avoid giving testimony which might incriminate him.

Chairman Caphart (R-Ind) asked if Powell would refuse to talk "regardless of how simple the questions might be."

"My answer will remain the same," Powell answered. Before he took the stand his attorney, Daniel B. Maher, told the committee that Powell is under subpoena to appear before a federal grand jury tomorrow. The grand jury probe of Powell's activities was ordered by Atty. Gen. Brownell.

The committee devoted the entire day to testimony about Powell's activities.

Earlier witnesses testified that Powell gambled heavily, borrowed from builders whose loan insurance he approved, and deposited $138,365 more than his net government salary in the period from 1945 until his discharge last April.

John C. Bard, a Government Accounting Office employee, said that Powell's net FHA salary from 1945 to April 1954, after withholding tax and other deductions, amounted to $75,793 with an additional $4,471 paid for reimbursable travel expenses.

During that period, Bard testified, Powell deposited in the Riggs National Bank here $101,220 in cash and $117,410 in checks, a total of $218,630, or $138,365 more than his net salary.

Work Halted; YMCA Seeks Injunction

STROUDSBURG YMCA was plunged into a new work stoppage yesterday as an electrical union picket went on duty.

Y directors promptly indicated they will seek an injunction.

The action would be necessary to prevent "dangerous damage and deterioration" which would result if the building was left unfinished, a spokesman said.

The picket represented the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 367, of Easton.

He was pacing before the building when workmen showed up about 8 a.m. The workmen went home again, with the exception of non-union men employed by Hanford Cleveland, East Stroudsburg plumbing contractor, and Matt Kime, Stroudsburg electrical contractor.

Cleveland has been in a hassle with the plumbers' union since 1953. That dispute moved into court, and Cleveland was granted a permanent injunction against the union. That case has not yet been ended. Y directors took no part in that legal action.

Kime had not been involved in disagreement with the union over the YMCA until yesterday, and even yesterday his name did not appear on the sign carried by the picket.

The sign simply said that no I. B. E. W. men were employed on the Y job.

Y directors said no notice of intention to picket had been given by the union.

Directors were called into special meeting in the morning by Y President Hol Wyckoff. The group met at the rear of the building.

A quorum was lacking, according to General Secretary John Wilson. Those directors present prepared a recommendation to be presented to the regular board meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday in Wyckoff's tearoom.

The gist of the recommendation is that directors will seek injunctive relief to get the picket removed and have work resumed on the building.

Directors never did use legal action against the plumbers' union in the year-long stoppage involving Cleveland, although they were close to it by the time the injunction finally was granted.

This time, however, they thought the situation was different:

"It's the Y that's receiving the damage, more than anyone else," said Wilson. "There's been no coercion here yet, as far as we know, but there will be damage to the Y program and to the community. Our case is that picketing will hold up completion of a building which will do the community a great deal of good and which the community needs."

"Our action will not be in any way against the union, but only to complete a building which has been delayed beyond all reasonable limit," Wilson added.

A study of possible legal remedies by the Y council was ordered. Attorneys on the board are Arlington W. Williams, Alex L. Bensinger and James T. Kitten.

Wyckoff also appointed a special committee to seek a meeting with union men and see if a new approach can be found. Members are Jesse S. Flory, Wilson and Tom Kistler.

Attorney Williams said contractor Paul Edinger told directors that if the building was left uncompleted—in its present state of construction—there would be "dangerous damage and deterioration" to the structure; and this factor was a strong one in prompting directors to move for a quick resolution of the work stoppage.

Wilson said Kime told directors no union men had contacted him since last October—a year ago.

The general secretary also recalled that business agent Lyons told him some time ago during an attempted mediation at the Indian Queen Hotel that if the plumbers' union picket was removed he'd "put one on from the electrical union."

"If the plumbers' union is defeated," Wilson quoted the agent, "you can expect trouble from the electrical union."

Heart Committee To Provide Organizations With Latest Information On Disease Care

A SPEAKERS' BUREAU which will provide lecturers and films to Parent-Teachers Associations and similar groups, will be a major undertaking of the newly formed Monroe County Heart Committee in an intensive educational campaign to enlighten physicians as well as lay persons on all new information concerning heart disease and its care.

Plans for the bureau, which will offer four different films and speakers, were presented by Dr. Charles Rushmore, vice president and program chairman, at a meeting Monday night, Dr. Harold Pond, president, presided.

It was stated that the speakers and films will be available in January and thereafter, but any organization interested in scheduling one of the programs may contact Dr. Rushmore immediately.

Other means of educating the public on all phases of heart disease and care, include the furnishing of four recognized cardiologists as speakers for the Monroe County Medical Society; the placing of tracts and books in schools and county libraries; increasing emphasis on the National Heart Association's "Heart of the Home" program; the setting up of booths distributing pamphlets at carnivals and fairs; and eventually the setting up of classes for parents with heart-handicapped children as well as a work classification unit that will guide the handicapped in selecting employment for which they are best suited.

A letter was read from Mrs. Verna Kohn, secretary of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club, in which the club accepted the responsibility of conducting the 1955 heart campaign, and named Mrs. Samuel Wells III, as chairman.

It was announced that a meeting to outline plans for the February heart drive will be held Friday night at the Hotel Redington, Wilkes-Barre, with Mrs. Parke Kunkle, treasurer, and Mrs. Madelyn Maloney, secretary, representing the Heart Committee.

It was also announced that Brian O'Connell, a Tufts College graduate with extensive experience in the field of public administration, has been named by the Pennsylvania Heart Association as field representative. He succeeds Doughton Cramer, who supervised the first heart fund campaign last February and attended the organization meeting of the local heart committee last May. Mr. Cramer has since been transferred to Connecticut.

Dr. Pond announced his intentions of attending the fifth annual members' meeting of the Pennsylvania Heart Association to be held Oct. 22 and 23 in Philadelphia.

Harold Ingraham, chairman of the by-laws committee, presented a report. It was voted that the committee will meet regularly on the first Monday night of every month except July, August, and September, when special meetings will be called as necessary.

In attendance were Drs. Pond and Rushmore, Mrs. Kunkle, Mrs. Maloney, Mr. Ingraham, Dr. E. T. Horn, Dr. M. J. Leitner, and Dr. H. G. Butler, publicity adviser.

David Griffith Re-elected To Head Group

THE MONROE County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee has re-elected David H. Griffith, Kunkletown RD 1, chairman; elected Donald Reish, Stroudsburg RD 2, vice-chairman; George L. Gould, of Effort, regular member.

These committeemen have the responsibility for carrying out the county agricultural conservation program, the price support programs, the acreage allotment and marketing quota programs, and any other programs assigned to it by the secretary of agriculture or the Congress.

Committeemen have many important decisions to make regarding adaptation of practices, specifications, compliance, quota programs, and general administration.

Community committeemen elected in the various townships are as follows: Hamilton Township, Kenneth Reaser, Archie Heller, Charles H. Haver, Jr.; Tunkhannock, Tunkhannock and Coalinga Townships, William H. Allomose, A. B. Moyer, George Kerriek; Chestnut-hill Township, Wilson Hawk, James T. Martin, T. J. POCONO FALL Foliage tour by Long Island Bell Telephone Pioneers included a greeting by local and state Bell officials at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday. Shown here are (front row) H. V. Burlbrink, vice president and general manager of Penna. Bell; Miss Laura Mahony, who was in charge of the tour; Mrs. Lulu Harvey, local chief operator; (back row) U. G. Hodgins, J. D. Johnson, Budd Van Horn, local manager; Neal Rote.

Telephone Pioneers Make Annual Visit To Poconos

A BRIEF TOUR of the Pocono Mountains to view the Fall foliage was conducted yesterday by 170 members of the Long Island Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America.

The group left Long Island at 10 a.m. and arrived here about 1 p.m. in four chartered buses. After a sightseeing trip into the mountains, they came to Stroudsburg for a luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

They were welcomed to Pennsylvania and the Poconos by Herbert V. Burlbrink, of Harrisburg, vice president and general manager of Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

Hurlbrink and several members of his staff were in Stroudsburg for a business conference with Budd Van Horn, local manager.

Before leaving on the return trip to Long Island at 4 p.m., the Pioneers were furnished literature on the Poconos by the Chamber of Commerce.

This is the second year the Long Island chapter has made a Fall pilgrimage to the Poconos. Last year, 70 persons were in the party.

Bangor Boys At Guidance Conference

BANGOR—Approximately fifty boys from the ninth and twelfth grades of Bangor High School attended a vocational guidance conference on automobile mechanics in the library of the school Monday afternoon.

The conference opened with a film "Opportunities in the Retail Automobile Business." Franklin Shover of the State Belt Buick Garage served as consultant.

Mr. Shover discussed the work of an auto mechanic as well as a body and fender repair man. He pointed out the opportunities in both fields of work, the possibilities of advancement, and the advantages and disadvantages of both types of work. The conference closed with a general question and answer period with Mr. Shover answering the questions directed to him by the boys.

Arnold Wynne, guidance counselor, was the chairman of the conference. Glenwood Houck projected the film and Marlene DeFranco was the student secretary.

The conferences are sponsored by the Bangor Exchange and Kiwanis Clubs working in cooperation with the guidance department of the school. Serving on the guidance committee of the Bangor Exchange Club are Delbert Messinger, chairman; Harvey Miller, Donald Stine, Anthony Punturo, Heber Jones, Daniel Miller, Alfred Counterman and Melvin Slutter. Kiwanis Club members are Anson Hamm, chairman; Donald B. Keat, John L. Williams, Clair Peiffer and Walter Ebert.

Lewis Funeral Services Held

SERVICES for Mrs. Veleda F. Lewis, 70, of 216 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Burial was at Laurelwood Cemetery, Stroudsburg. Pallbearers were Carl Secor, Carl Hamill, Edward Staples, Charles Schaller, Wesley Mosteller, William Smith, Frank Laise and Chauncey Buenzli.

Moose To Hear State Officer

MEMBERS of the East Stroudsburg Lodge of Moose have been called into special session Friday at 8 p.m. to hear an important report from Chester Steffins, state official of the order.

Robert Reidmiller, governor of the local lodge, said every member should be present. Advance word received by officers from Mr. Steffins indicates his report should be heard by every member.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting with John Lambert in charge.

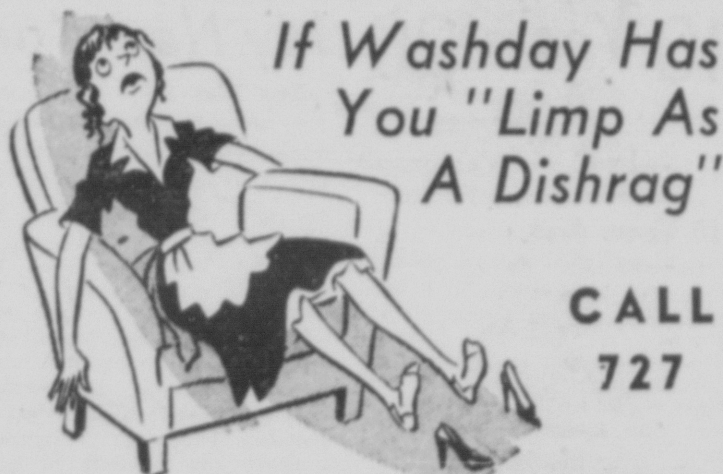

The group indicated they would return next year.

In yesterday's party were telephone workers with at least 21 years of service. The great majority comprised retired employees with service up to 45 years.

Eastburg Council Okays $30,000 Bond Issue For Drainage

Bank Receives Issue At Bid Of 1 Per Cent

AN ORDINANCE providing for $30,000 bond issue for storm drainage work was adopted last night by East Stroudsburg council.

Bids were received on the bond issue. Award was made to East Stroudsburg National Bank, at a rate of one per cent, putting net cost of the issue at $1,650.

Other firms bidding on the bond issue were Dolphin & Co., Stroudsburg Security Trust Co., Monroe County National Bank, and First Stroudsburg National Bank.

The money will be used to construct storm sewer lines and to buy and prepare Gregory's Pond as a drainage reservoir to catch runoff water. The project was approved by council as an inexpensive solution to a major drainage problem.

A large number of complaints were reported on condition of the borough's water, and councilmen moved toward correction; they approved Councilman Harold Wiggins' suggestion that they retain Buck Cypher and Jones to make a complete survey of the borough water works and recommend means to prevent muddy and discolored water.

The project if approved could be financed either through the borough authority or by putting the question to voters at next year's primary.

One resident—Clement Wiedinger—submitted a letter tracing his troubles with muddy borough water, his expenses in putting in new copper pipe and installing a new water heater only to find the situation not remedied. He wound up by asking council to pay the household laundry bills, since his wife could not do the laundry at home because of muddy water.

Burgess Jesse Flory cast his first vote as the result of another question on water; whether or not to rescind the present restrictions on outside water use.

Hall moved the restrictions be rescinded because lawn-watering season was over. The opposition argued that some would take advantage of the lifting of the ban and that since water supplies were still dangerously low, the ban should be kept.

Hall, Roy Lloyd and Herman Smeltz voted to lift the ban. Charles Buehler, Verdon T. Gilliland and Wiggins voted to keep it. It was up to Flory to break the tie. He voted to keep the ban, but as a "matter of policy." When the vote was that close, Flory explained, he thought it best not to "force a change" in the status.

Superintendent Henry Lesoine said the water reservoir was down about 10 feet.

A. E. Englehardt, 32 S. Kistler St., resigned as superintendent of the fire alarm system, a post he has held for years. He gave reasons of ill health. Council appointed his son, George, to the post.

Curb and gutter work was approved for Brown St. and for Prospect St. Roy Lloyd was named council-appointed trustee of the police pension fund. He will be one of three. The other is the burgess. And the third, to be appointed at a police meeting tonight, will be a patrolman.

Annexation was approved of six properties on E. Brown St., from Smithfield Township; and of property owned by International Boiler Works, and by Isaac Martin, from Stroud Township. The latter tract runs from West Fifth St. easterly to the borough's east boundary line.

College Dance Held To Welcome New Students

THE SOCIAL season at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College opened Saturday night with a welcome dance honoring new students. Amid giant college pennants and giant couples of freshmen beauties, more than a hundred couples danced to the music of Ken Brader Jr. and his orchestra in the small gymnasium on the campus.

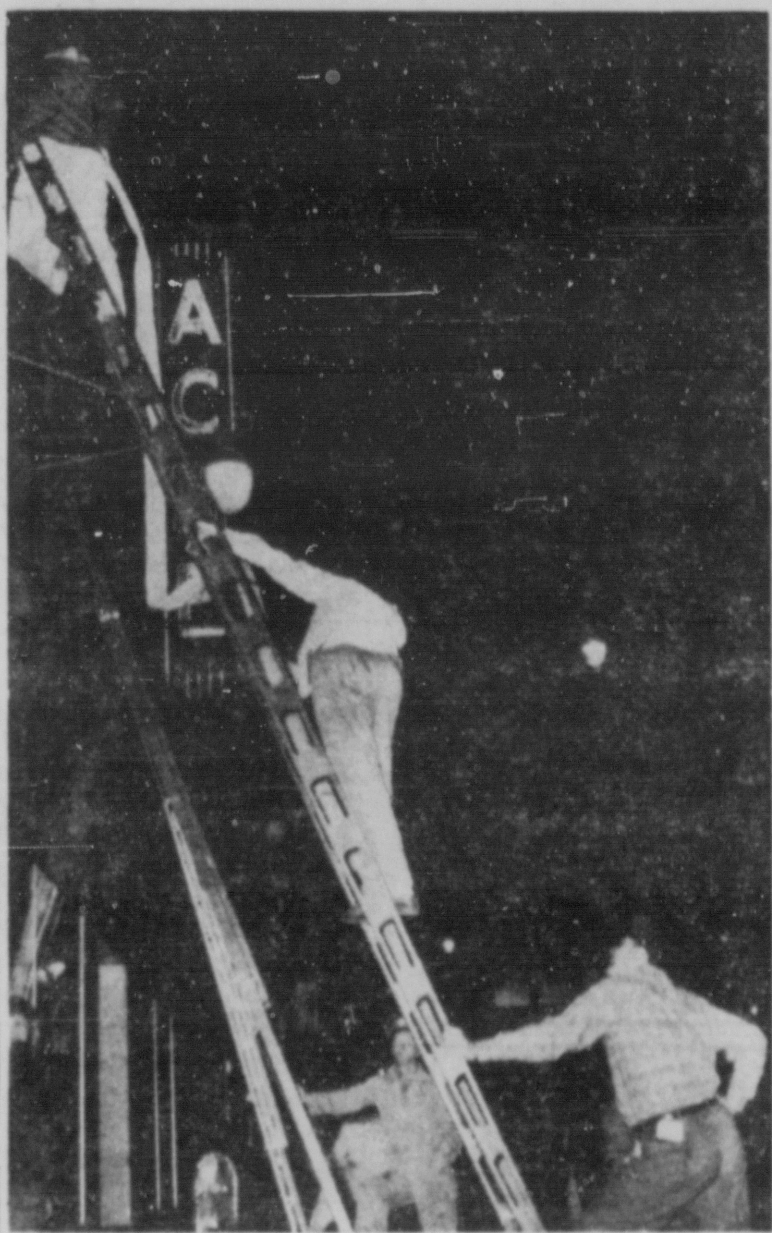

Preceding the dance was a formal reception at which president and Mrs. Joseph Noonan, together with the other administrative officers and their wives, greeted the new students and the new members of the faculty.

Chaperones for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Oxhandler, Miss Katherine McFarland, Miss Katherine Griffith, and Ralph Smith, all of the college faculty.

Truman To Make Only Speech At Oct. 16 Dinner

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman will make a major talk at his only public appearance in the general election campaign when he speaks at a party rally, and $5-a-box supper here Oct. 16.

J. Marcus Kirtley, Democratic County committee chairman, said Truman "has assured us that his speech will be a crackerjack. It will cover his thinking on the state of the nation and domestic and international problems."

THREE LADS ON A LADDER. Stroudsburg fire companies staged a precision fire drill last night at the building housing the Masonic hall and the Acme supermarket. Among those answering the call were the men on the ladder here. From top to bottom they are Jack Raymond, Franklin Clifton and James Somers. Walter Dickison is the man standing at the foot of the ladder in the background. The drill was planned as part of annual Fire Prevention Week observance in the borough. (Staff Photo by Randolph)

Public Relations Important To Industry, Jones Tells Club

LOCAL INDUSTRIALISTS were told last night that "like it or not" industry must deal in public relations and that this job "is in the hands of everyone who works for industry."

In its first meeting of the 1954-55 year, Monroe County Industrial Management Club heard an address by Elliott Jones, public relations director of the Lukens Steel Co., Coatesville.

Jones said that the purpose of public relations is to eliminate misunderstanding. Industry, the speaker noted, is particularly prone to public misunderstanding since its growth has created poor impressions in the minds of many.

He listed these three "basic elements of public relations—integrity, sound objective judgment and performance." He urged his listeners to "reduce industrial activities to terms which the public understand."

Second guest speaker at the meeting was Jesse S. Flory who talked about the functions of the Monroe County Community Chest and the current Chest drive for $66,520 to meet this year's goal.

Al Schaffer, president of the club, presided at the opening meeting. Committee reports were heard from Herb Yutz, Ed Telling and Bob Altomese.

Horace Walters outlined the program for the year, then introduced Charles Raye, sales representative of the Coatesville firm, who, in turn, introduced the speaker.

There were 86 members in attendance at the first meeting which was held in the Penn-Stroud Hotel ballroom.

9,000 Persons Expected To Witness Show

PRELIMINARY estimates, including cooperating schools in the Poconos, indicate over 9,000 persons will pass through the elaborate industrial show to be staged in the Penn-Stroud Hotel garage Pennsylvania Week, Oct. 11-17.

Twenty local industries have already taken space and several more are expected to sign up within the next few days.

Excellent display space is available in the hotel garage which was found to be outstanding for such exhibitions when the Vacation Bureau held its mammoth hotel show there this spring.

Industries are busy assembling their finest production achievements, some coming from affiliated plants in the midwest. Others have new, expensive models of production.

The show will run three full days—closing on Thursday night when a big Pennsylvania Week banquet will be held at the Penn-Stroud with Robert E. Kintner, president of American Broadcasting Co., as speaker.

Firms in the show now are busy sending out notices to their customers, both local and outside the region. Citizens Gas Co. has already set up a mailing list of 4,800.

Firms which have already signed for booths are:

Citizens Gas Co., The Daily Record, Radio Station WVPO, Duck-Loe Bros., Cramer Lumber Co., East Stroudsburg Bedding, Edinger and Wyckoff, Inc., International Boiler Works, Kol-Ax, Inc., LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery, Line Material, Patterson-Kelley, Penna. Power and Light Co., Pocono Shoe Co., Ronson Corp., Stroudsburg Engine Works, Stroudsburg Septic Tank, Tobyhanna Signal Depot, Tru-Matic Machine and Tool Co., Worthington Mower Co.

Jerry Cramer, 41, Succumbs In Illness

GERALD CRAMER, 41, of Blue Island, Ill., died Sunday morning of a heart attack in St. Francis Hospital here.

He was the son of Chauncey and Mrs. Sue Cramer. His mother is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Starnner of Stroudsburg, who has been living with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greiner of Bryant St., and who is now in the Monroe County General Hospital for treatment.

Jerry was well known in Stroudsburg for he spent much time here with relatives. He was married to Margaret (Peg) Mann, daughter of Mrs. Marcus T. Mann of Broad St. They had just recently moved to Blue Island.

He is survived by his mother and father, and two married sisters in this area including Mrs. Daniel Lee, of King St., East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greiner of Houston Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fleming of Scott St.; Mrs. Gene Greiner and Arthur A. Widmer. Mr. Cramer formerly worked at Wyckoff's Department Store.

Funeral services will be held in Blue Island.

Driver Of New Car Runs Into Cloud Of Dust, Soon Discovers Truck, Power Broom In Center

KRESGEVILLE — A 64-year-old Lititz, Pa. woman with 600 miles on her new 1954 sedan crashed into a cloud of dust near here yesterday afternoon on Route 209 and found out the dust had a truck in its center.

The woman, Blanche Chapman of Linden Hall Academy, Lititz, told Lehigh State police she was driving out of Kresgeville when she came to a part of the road undergoing reconstruction.

The road was torn up. The Woman said she slowed down slightly, then saw a "cloud of dust coming" toward her car. The dust cloud was on the women's side of the road.

She slowed her car down again — but it was too late. Mrs. Chapman's car collided with a truck. The truck was pulling a "power broom" which, police said, "had been causing all the dust."

Driver of the truck was Isaac G. Henning, 49, of Long Pond. The accident occurred at 1:20

p. m. one-tenth of a mile east of Kresgeville.

Damage to the Chapman car was estimated at $450; to the truck at about $25. Neither Mrs. Chapman nor Henning was injured. No charges were filed.

Police said the woman told them there was no flag man stationed at the site of the accident when it occurred. The truck was part of equipment being used by the construction company, police said.

Essay Winners To Receive Cash Awards

THREE MONROE County high or junior high school students will win cash prizes in a Pennsylvania Week essay contest being sponsored by The Daily Record.

These prizes will be awarded: $25 bond for first place essay in the competition; $10 in cash for the second award winner and $5 in cash for the third prize winner.

All high school and junior high school students in Monroe County are eligible to enter the contest. Here's all they have to do:

First of all the students is allowed to visit the giant industrial show next week. The show opens Monday, Oct. 11 and continues through Thursday, Oct. 14 in the Penn-Stroud Hotel garage.

Having seen the show, the student is asked to write an essay of 300 words or less in which he tells, in his own words, "What Local Industry Means To Me." The student is not required to visit the industrial show but The Daily Record believes that exhibits shown there may give local students a better idea of the extent of local industry.

Students are asked to submit their entries on regulation business-size paper (8½ by 11 inches). The paper should be used on one side only. Entries may be written either in long hand or on the typewriter.

All essays must be sent to "Contest Editor, The Daily Record, Stroudsburg, Pa." All entries must be in The Daily Record office in Stroudsburg no later than noon on Friday, Oct. 22 to be eligible for competition.

Entries will be judged on the basis of treatment of subject matter and the neatness of the paper submitted. Decision of the judges, in all cases, is final.

Winners will be honored later at a dinner during which awards will be given. Details of the dinner will be announced soon.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-302

DESIGN C-302. Here is a plan that deserves attention from anyone who needs three bedrooms on one floor in a small house. In addition to this feature, there is a combination kitchen-dinette, living room, bath and full basement. An interesting possibility would be the substitution of a folding door for the partition between living room and front bedroom and the use of this bedroom as a study or den.

The bedrooms are all above minimum size, considering the area of the plan, with generous wardrobe closets more than satisfying normal needs. The kitchen is large with well placed cabinets, a compact step-saving work area and a large dining space. The floor is 948 sq. ft. with a cubage of 18,486 cu. ft.

For further information about DESIGN C-302, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, St. John, New Brunswick.

Keeping House In Good Repair Pays Dividends

A FAMILY'S investment in the home should be protected by keeping the house in first-class condition at all times.

This means constant attention to small details so that even with age and use there will be little impairment in value. The house should continue indefinitely to be as sturdy and attractive as when new.

Repairs should be made as soon as defects are discovered, to prevent small jobs becoming costly big ones. A split clapboard will quickly rot and damage the interior by admitting moisture. A few broken or displaced shingles will soon result in serious damage that may cost hundreds of dollars to repair. There should be frequent inspections of the house inside and out.

One of the most economical factors in maintaining the value of a house is regular painting of both exterior and interior. Exterior paint should be renewed at least every four years. Not only does this add beauty to the house, but more important is the fact that top-quality paint, properly applied, protects the wood and metal surfaces from rot, rust and corrosion. It is these enemies of wood and metal that cause the real damage to any structure. Where paint is kept in good condition, repair bills are kept down.

An attractive home with modern color treatment is always worth more than a drab house, although the drab house may be equally as sound structurally.

Keep Files Clean

A METAL file works better if it is cleaned at frequent intervals with a file brush or card. This removes the small bits of metal from between the file teeth which prevent it from cutting properly.

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Oil comes out, grease and dirt—and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly—no danger of a streaky, unsightly result.

Heating Units Should Have Proper Care

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

CLIPPING coupons isn't always the privilege of only rich old bond holders. We householders can clip a few right now from our forthcoming winter fuel bills and heating plant repairs by getting a seasonal checkup for the old firebox, the same as we do for the family jockey.

R. E. Ferry, who is general manager of the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers, known as the IBR, was telling us the other day that many homeowners give their heating plants scarcely a fraction of the care they bestow on their automobiles.

"Home heating systems," he said, "are commonly operated throughout the fall, winter and spring months without servicing or check-up. That is roughly comparable to running a car continuously at 30 miles per hour for 30,000 miles without servicing of any kind—something no sane car owner would attempt."

"Since most autos are serviced every 3,000 to 4,000 miles, this means they're looked after about eight or ten times as often as the home heating plant. And the modern furnace also is a highly engineered complex of parts and machinery."

Of course, he's right. Most home heating systems include electric motors, burners or stokers, safety devices, pumps and other automatic equipment, which deserves a periodical going over by skilled technicians.

"When neglected," Ferry added, "even the finest systems can break down and become costly to operate. Even a forced hot water baseboard system, which I consider the lowest of all in operating costs, should have a checkup. Excessive fuel costs result when such equipment as boilers, burners or chimneys have not been cleaned at least once a year."

However, with some heating plants there's a lot you can do yourself to prepare for another season. Take a circulating warm air system, for example. Summer dust which has settled in registers—both warm air and cold air return registers—can be prevented from fluffing through your house by doing a little vacuum cleaning. (This applies to radiators and convectors, too.)

If you don't think any dust accumulates in registers, try leaving a mahogany table undusted all summer long to see how much of a layer of dust and grime you'll find. The same layer settles every place. Sheldon Coleman, the Wichita, Kans., manufacturer of high speed heating plants, argues that it is merely good housekeeping to clean registers before the opening of a new heating season.

"Remove the registers and get inside with the extension tube of your vacuum cleaner to do the best job," he says. "And you'll get cleaner air and a better functioning furnace by cleaning or changing filters."

"Today's filters are very efficient, trapping upwards of 85 per cent of the dust and dirt circulated through the air. But because they're so efficient, they get pretty dirty. Take them out in the back yard. Put on a pair of gloves to protect your hands from glass slivers, and tap them with a stick to get rid of the loose surface dirt. Then remove the dirt from within the filter proper with your vacuum cleaner."

Most filters are so cheap nowadays you might find it simpler to throw them away and buy new ones. We commented on this some time ago, observing that you get a furnace filter for about the cost of a carton of filtered or unfiltered cigarettes. That brought forth an informative letter from the Research Products Corp. of Madison, Wis., calling our attention to permanent, easy-to-clean filters.

Washable aluminum alloy filters were cited. These are coated with a patented adhesive. You wash the filters simply by flushing them with water from a hose or tap. In severe cases you can soak them in warm water and mild soap suds. After rinsing, let them dry and then re-coat them with the dust and odor-trapping adhesive, sprayed from a squeeze bottle or window washing squeezer.

Big Pocono Park Open To Hunters

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Department of Forests and Waters today announced that 38,015 acres of non-recreational portions of nine state parks will be opened for the 1954 hunting season.

Samuel S. Lewis, forests and waters secretary, noted that this is an increase of 8,892 acres above last year's total.

Approximately 1,000 acres will be accounted for by the opening of the new Big Pocono Park in Monroe County.

This does not mean that Monroe County will have more hunting acreage than before, however. What it does mean is this:

The 1,000 acres in the front part of Big Pocono, near the fire tower, were formerly controlled by the State Game Commission. Last year the Game Commission released Big Pocono's acreage to the Department of Forest and Waters.

The Forest and Waters department has now decided to open the 3,000 acres for hunting. The department, therefore, has 1,000 acres more of hunting land under its jurisdiction but the Game Commission has 1,000 acres less.

Lewis said that hunting areas have been increased in Hickory Run Park in Carbon County, Cook Forest in Clarion County and Raccoon Creek Park in Beaver County.

Hunting areas remain the same in five other parks including French Creek, Berks County; Ricketts Glen, Luzerne County; Blue Knob, Bedford County; Laurel Hill, Somerset County, and Tobyhanna, Monroe County.

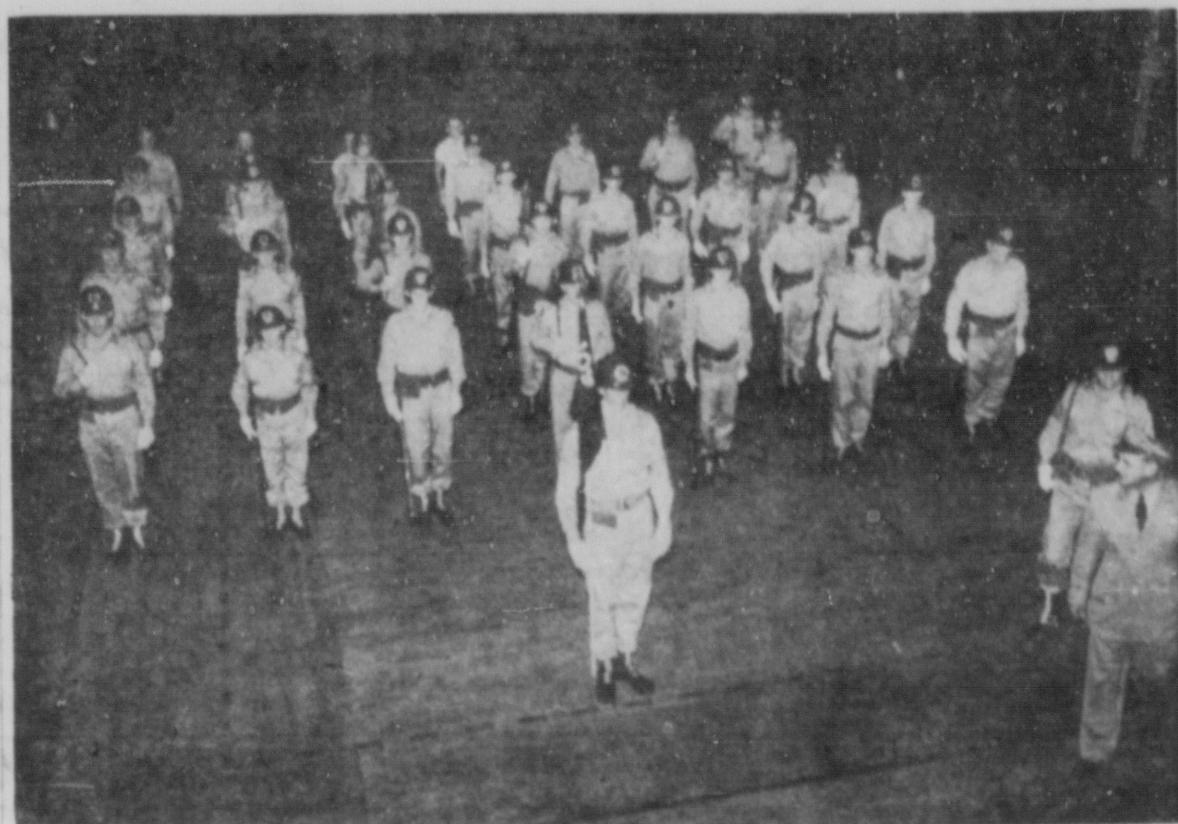

Lewis said the different areas will be posted with signs clearly indicating where hunting is permissible. Individual park maps, showing permissible hunting areas, may be secured at the park offices.

SS Charges Causes Need Of Examiner

THE VOLUME of work arising from the recent amendments to the Social Security law has created a claims examiner shortage in Pennsylvania Civil Service Region 3, Miss Marie T. Miller, District Manager of the Easton office said today.

Miss Miller said the Civil Service Commission has just announced a series of examinations for Junior Professional Assistant, Grade 5, to meet this shortage. Although applications will be taken until further notice, the deadline for applying for the first examination is October 5.

Information about the examina-

COMMAND INSPECTION—Company G stands its first inspection by commanding general, Maj. Gen. Henry Fluck, Harrisburg, CO of 109th Infantry, at East Stroudsburg Armory. General is at lower right. He commended unit for its leaders, non-coms, and display of equipment, said company had "come a long way" since reactivation last April. There are 49 enlisted men in company, under command of Lt. Richard L. Rugg Jr.

Two Paradise Valley Brothers Reunited While In Far East

TWO PARADISE VALLEY brothers, both servicemen, were reunited for one day in Japan while each was serving in Far East.

They are Lt. Rodney Ross, who spent 15 months in Hokkaido, Japan while serving two years in the U.S. Air Force, and Cpl. Jefferson Quartermaster Co., Seventh Division in Korea.

Jefferson was on "rest and rehabilitation" in Tokyo, when the reunion was arranged. The brothers spent the day visiting places of interest in the Tokyo area.

Rodney, who was supply officer on one of the radar detachments on Hokkaido, has since returned to the United States. He received his honorable discharge at Parks Air Force Base, Cal., and expects to take a sales position with a metals company in the New York area.

The brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross, of Paradise Valley, Cresco RD.

tion can be secured from the Easton Social Security office, located at 33 South 3rd Street. Application forms are obtainable from the local Post Office.

The job of Claims Examiner starts at $3,410 a year, and at the end of the qualified period which is approximately one year, goes to $4,205. Applicants should have a college degree with a social science major or equivalent work experience.

Rate Boost Suspended Three Months

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5 (AP)—An estimated $1,173,000 a year rate increase proposed by the Scranton Electric Co. was suspended another three months today by the Public Utility Commission.

The new effective date will be next Jan. 12. The commission said it needed the additional time to complete an investigation of the boost originally filed to become effective last April 12.

The increase, if approved, will effect 88,200 consumers in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna and Wayne counties.

Protests have been filed against the boost by the city of Scranton and its school district; Myrtle W. Curtis, secretary of Moose Grange No. 1041; John Burke, Carbondale, and G. R. Buck, Scranton.

Chestnuthill FFA Initiates Ten Members

BRODHEADSVILLE — Chestnuthill chapter of the Future Farmers of America held its first night meeting of the year at the high school here Monday night.

Myrl Pysker, president, was in charge of the meeting. Ten new members, called "green hands", were initiated into the chapter. They were Kent Barney, Edward Rauss, Larry Eckmann, Albert Kresge, Eugene Mackes, William Altomese, Lee Shupp, Marvin Hawk, Harry Snyder and LeRoy Bonser.

Bruce Vogel, another candidate, could not be present for the initiation, a spokesman said. Committees were appointed by the president.

Other officers are Clair Altomese, vice president; Tom Shultz, secretary; Louis Meckes, treasurer; Carl Altomese, reporter and Frank Varney, adviser.

Visitors at the first night meeting were Charles Hoffman, Carl Gould, recent graduates of Chestnuthill school and Wilmer B. Frisbie, county vocational agriculture adviser.

Refreshments—cider and doughnuts—were served after the meeting. Altomese and Meckes were the refreshment committee.

Can Buy?

MORE TOMORROW!

We're out to break a record in October!

THERE's a mighty good chance that October 1954 will be the biggest October in Buick history.

In fact, we know it will — if we can keep Buick sales rolling as they've been rolling thus far this year.

This is the pace-setting car that has romped ahead of competition — climbed up into the circle of America's three top sales leaders.

It's the car that has been winning customers because it has the power, the ride, the room, and the styling that make it the buy of the year.

So we're in the mood to talk turkey, if you are in the market. Come in today for a car — and a deal — too good to miss.

The luxurious ROADMASTER Buick, custom built by Buick, sells for the lowest price per pound in the fine-car field.

This is the 3-way bonus we offer in Buick today

Now's the time to make your buy because —

1. Tomorrow's Styling

True year-ahead beauty with long, low glamor lines, keynoted by that spectacular new panoramic windshield that most other cars won't have till 1955 or later.

2. Higher Resale Value in the years to come

From the far-in-advance styling that will keep your Buick new and modern-looking well into the future, as other cars catch up.

3. Bigger Allowance from our volume business

For the huge sales success that has moved Buick into the circle of the "Big 3" means we can offer you a higher trade-in on your present car. Come in and see for yourself that we can make you a better deal.

Helpful Service Provided By Public Health Nursing

This is the third in a series of stories based on actual work done by the 12 member agencies of your Community Chest. Each is devoted to one isolated case—but each is also typical of the valuable work done by all of the agencies. Today's story comes from the files of the Monroe County Organization of Public Health Nursing. The names of persons and some of the events have been changed in all cases except those listing workers for the agency.

By LEONARD RANDOLPH

TOO MANY times there is a tendency to think of Community Chest agencies as organizations which provide "charity" or "relief."

These functions, as the Chest takes pains to point out at every available opportunity, are provided by other agencies—many of them maintained by the State or Federal governments.

Although several of the 12 Community Chest member agencies do give service to families which cannot afford to pay for medicine, food, clothing or a home, the primary purpose of the agencies is to watch over and guard all families in the community which need help. This assistance, when it is necessary, may be provided even though the family involved has a reasonably large income.

This is an example of such a family. It tells the story of Farman—Alice and Bill—and their ten-year-old son, Jed.

Jed Farman listened to the sound of angry voices from the living room of his home.

Thinking back over the ten years of his life, it seemed to Jed that he could not remember a day or a night or an hour when his father and mother had seemed happy with each other.

Jed had not always been conscious of this friction, of course. Now he became conscious of it only when he was trapped in the room of his home, where the voices followed him constantly with angry persistence and he was left with the feeling that he could not shut any more doors.

In all his ten years Jed could not remember a day when he, his father and mother had seemed to belong together in this house. Instead there were endless repetitions of the same scene: his father and mother came home from work at 6 p. m. Jed had been home since 4 p. m. from school.

When his parents arrived there followed an hour or more while supper was prepared, with Jed's mother in the kitchen and his father in the living room, reading the paper, or on the front porch doing the same.

When he had been very young, Jed had run down the long sidewalk to the driveway, his lips broken into a grin, his voice ready to shatter the lonely silence of the neighborhood, in which there were no other children.

After days of disappointment—"Don't jump on your mother's dress when your hands are dirty." "Don't bother your father while he's unloading the car." "Get off the running board, Jed." "How many times do I have to tell you . . ."—Jed forgot about running to meet his parents.

At first he sat on the front porch and watched the car pull in the driveway, lifting his hand to wave and getting no response. Many times he would sit on the steps, waiting for his parents to come up the sidewalk to the house only to hear the car motor die away followed by the sound of human argument.

Finally Jed stopped waiting for the car to come home. Even when his parents came straight into the house they had too little time to stop and talk with Jed on the porch.

When he came home from school Jed generally turned on the television set and watched the western movie. When that was over he sometimes went to his bedroom to lie on the floor and read a new comic book. If there was no new one, he re-read one of the dozens he had stacked away in tumbled piles in his clothes closet.

If Jed's parents had not been so involved in their own problems—or more specifically, in their differences—they might have noticed the effect their bickering had on their son.

But both Bill and Alice were working. There was no reason for that, actually—Bill earned enough money to keep his family well—but Alice had hated the thought of losing her "independence" in marriage. After Jed was born, she announced her intention to go back to work again and when Jed was old enough to enter school, she did.

Since neither Alice nor Bill had any idea how much of their unhappiness was "rubbing off" on Jed they could find no explanation for the kind of boy he was turning into. Although several of their friends often reminded them that Jed was "much too quiet for a boy," the fact seemed to relieve them of a few more headaches during the day and they tried to rationalize Jed's quietness by calling him "the bookish type."

There was no doubt about the grain of truth in this statement. Most of the "reality" in Jed's life came from the books he was reading. He had escaped from the noise of harsh words into the exciting world of Superman, Batman and Crime Does Not Pay.

Under ordinary circumstances Jed would have been able to spend some time with his parents at night. But the Farman were not ordinary people.

Before her marriage, Alice had been one of the most popular girls into the community. Bill had been a star athlete and a fine businessman. Both came from very "good" families.

As a result, the Farman did more than their share of "entertaining at home." On the nights when they were not giving parties, they were generally invited out to the country club or to a movie or for dancing. They had a regular "baby-sitter," whose sole means of employment was the Farman's, even though she was a 30-year-old woman.

Her name was Lillian Wicken and Jed hated her for a variety of reasons, not the least of which was the fact that she forced him to go to bed as soon as his parents were gone.

Now Jed was ten years old. His marks in school showed that he had the mentality of a human nearly twice his age. He was a retiring, soft spoken, brilliant kid whose pale, pasty countenance seldom brightened.

Some of his teachers in the public school he attended were very fond of Jed. They had tried to reach him through kindness and gentleness, but they realized by now that he had little capacity for accepting kindness and affection—that the emotions going with these natural gestures were alien to him.

In his tenth year Jed's father and mother had quarrelled more than ever before. Hardly a day passed that either Bill or Alice failed to threaten to leave the house.

The arguments had become more intense and often seemed on the edge of violence. It was in this year that Jed became seriously "ill."

The sickness had been there all along, waiting inside, crying fiercely for release in emotional sobbing, but it had been permanently bottled by the coldness of his parents.

One night—less than a week after his tenth birthday—Jed threw up his supper for the hundredth time and was herded upstairs to his bed. His fever was dutifully taken (it was 99.6) and Bill told Alice there was nothing whatever the matter with the boy. They left him alone in the room and went down to the kitchen where the sound of hard voices could be heard rather distinctly over the continual clatter of pots and pans in the sink.

The noise fluttered into Jed's room and stayed there, ominous and constant. An hour later he vomited again—this time on the floor with the new carpet his mother had bought when she had "re-done" his bedroom that Summer while he was away at camp.

For some reason Jed wanted to run from the room and out of the house before his mother came back and found him there huddled in the middle of his bed. But he was shaking and trembling too much. And then it was too late, for his mother was there, stooping over to clean the carpet and his father had left the room shouting "Oh, all right. I'll call the doctor."

The doctor had known Jed since his birth. He had known the Farman a long time, although they were not close friends.

He gave Jed a thorough examination, during which, like most doctors, he asked questions about Jed's life in school and at play—and at home. Although the tests showed there was nothing physically wrong with Jed, the doctor knew that, sooner or later, something must be done to correct his home environment.

For a time he pondered asking the mother and father some questions of his own. He even considered, briefly, suggesting that both Bill and Alice take Jed to see a psychologist and work with him to find Jed's trouble. He mentioned this to Bill once and was met with a silence which might have shamed the Sphinx.

The doctor then took another—and as it developed, a wiser—course. Jed was referred to the Monroe County Organization of Public Health Nursing, a private, non-profit Community Chest agency which gives bedside care and health supervision to any person in Monroe county.

He asked the Public Health Nurse to supervise Jed's diet and to administer "shots" to build him up. A check of the boy's past showed that he had lost nearly 20 pounds since his last physical examination.

When the nurse made her first visit to the home, both Bill and Alice Farman seemed interested in his condition. A short while later, their own relationship had quieted to the point where both were willing to accept suggestions.

Beginning at this point, the Public Health Nurse began to attempt slowly and painstakingly to convince both Bill and Alice that Jed's illness had been the natural outgrowth of an unnatural environment.

Tactfully and graciously, the nurse attempted to explain that Jed needed his parents' love and affection; that he must have his father's companionship and understanding and that he needed their advice in matters which disturbed him.

It is possible that neither Alice nor Bill Farman had made an attempt to make room for Jed in their home; neither of them had seemed to want the restrictive influence of a child so soon. Slowly, the Public Health Nurse began to show them the need in their own lives for relaxation, explaining at length that this may have been the one crucial factor in their inability to touch their son or his needs.

After one of these sessions, Mrs.

Farman quietly announced that she was giving up her job—at least for a year—just to see if that would make a difference.

There was a silence in the room. Then Bill Farman carefully tapped tobacco into the bowl of his pipe, lighted it and stared at the ceiling.

"You know," he said. "The more I think about it, the more it seems to me you're right, nurse. I don't know the first thing about Jed. I tried to talk to him tonight before he went to sleep."

"He was quiet and respectful and he gave me a lot of yes or no answers. But I felt almost like an inquiring reporter stopping someone on the street."

It is unlikely the Farman will ever see a greater change in their daily lives than that which began on the day of decision.

Over a period of months, Bill and Alice did an almost complete about face from their former lives. Alice's time was spent at home with Jed or with her friends who stopped in the afternoon for a talk or to have coffee.

Because she was less irritable at night, Bill found it easier to come home and relax for an hour, then do the things his son wanted to do with him.

Today Jed's life has actually begun—although he is physically 13 years old and mentally close to the voting age. He goes fishing, boat riding, swimming and hunting with his father. His parents have become the biggest rooters for Jed's community baseball team.

And Jed himself has become a different boy—his weight regained, his complexion healthy and his eyes reflecting the happiness inside his heart.

This is Jed's story. It's the kind of story that ends happily with all the pieces falling back in their proper places—but like most such stories it had to have the guidance of a human being or an organization with understanding.

When you contribute to the Community Chest you are helping to support such valuable agencies as the organization of Public Health Nursing.

From the total goal of this year's drive — $66,520 — Public Health Nursing will receive $5,000.

When the Community Chest worker visits you to ask for your contribution—remember the work done by Public Health Nursing and the 11 other member agencies of the Chest.

Your donation may mean the difference between success and failure in the Chest campaign, as always. Give. Give as generously as you can.

Miss Carmel Casciano Fall Bride Of Joseph E. Figlioli

ROSETO—Miss Carmel Casciano, daughter of Mrs. Mary H. Casciano, this place, became the early fall bride of Joseph Edward Figlioli, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Figlioli, of Columbus, Ohio, at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, here, Saturday, Oct. 2.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Walsh at 10 a.m. Mrs. Thomas Ronco furnished the wedding music and Mrs. Anthony Casciano was soloist. Church decorations consisted of gold pompons.

Given in marriage by her brother, Anthony Casciano, of Bethlehem, the bride was attired in a Chantilly lace gown made with V neckline, long sleeves and trimmed with iridescent sequins. Her veil fell from a lace crown trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with an orchid.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Figlioli, of Columbus, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Mrs. Figlioli was attired in a dusty rose lace and aqua lace headpiece and carried a bouquet of aqua carnations and roses.

The ring bearer was Nicholas Parillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Parillo, of Roseto, nephew of the bride.

Following the reception at the Marconi Club, the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to New York City. They will reside at 1928 East Hudson St., Columbus, Ohio.

The bride was employed by the Well Made Novelty Co., Bangor. Mr. Figlioli was graduated from St. Vincent School, Columbus, and served in the U. S. Army in World War Two, with a tour of 45 months in the South Pacific. He is employed by the Dayton division of the Ohio Malleable Iron Co.

Projects Of Hadassah Are Related

At a meeting of the Stroudsburg Chapter of Hadassah, held in the Temple Israel vestry rooms on Monday, Sept. 20, Mrs. Morris Laverton, membership chairman, announced that six new members have joined the group. They are: Mrs. Tom Breslau, Mrs. Irving Effross, Mrs. Myron Ehrlich, Mrs. Marvin Ehrlich, Mrs. Ben Gesinsky and Mrs. S. Shulman.

In a welcoming address to these new members, Mrs. Leo Feinsilver, president of Hadassah, pointed out that Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, which now numbers 300,000 members in 1200 chapters and groups and is organized in all 48 states, Alaska, and Puerto Rico, was organized in 1912 by the late Henrietta Szold. Because she visited Palestine and was shocked by substandard health conditions there, she founded Hadassah to do something about it.

Today in the United States, Hadassah helps foster creative and intelligent Jewish living through an education program; participates in efforts which safeguard democracy here and assure peace and security throughout the world; encourages and supports Jewish youth activities; and acts as an interpreter of Israel to the American community, it was stated.

In Israel, Hadassah conducts a comprehensive health and social welfare program, which includes a hospital network of diagnostic, curative and preventive medical services, health stations, youth refuge rehabilitation, vocational education and land redemption projects, it was pointed out.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pierre Lake, Mrs. James Marsh and Mrs. Herbert Pooley to the following members: Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lake and children Joan, Johnny and Ruthie; Mrs. John Neipert, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley, Mrs. James Marsh, Mrs. William Barry, Misses Mildred Kintner, Barbara Garis and Eunice Reaser.

Friendly Class Opens Meeting

THE FRIENDLY CLASS of the Fifth Street Presbyterian Mission held its first meeting of the season at the mission on Friday night, October 1. The class will continue its policy of furnishing the softdrink for the mission's Halloween party.

Barbara Garis, class treasurer, reported a very satisfactory treasury balance, the result of several class projects including the successful "white elephant" auction which was held in May.

The class president, Gladys Marsh, had charge of the devotional period and she mentioned several Bible characters who are known for their specific virtues of character and pointed out how they can serve as inspiration in Christian growth.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pierre Lake, Mrs. James Marsh and Mrs. Herbert Pooley to the following members: Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lake and children Joan, Johnny and Ruthie; Mrs. John Neipert, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley, Mrs. James Marsh, Mrs. William Barry, Misses Mildred Kintner, Barbara Garis and Eunice Reaser.

Baked bananas make a delicious accompaniment to ham. They may also be used as a dessert.

Tri-Hi-Y Units Organize For Coming Year

Flory Class Meets

The F. P. Flory class of the Stroudsburg Methodist Sunday School will meet Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. H. B. Wagner, 27 S. Seventh St.

I'm typing to rhythm today—and all because I can't shut out of my mind the lilting lyrics of Tom Waring's very catchy "Way Back Home." It's been pestering me ever since Bing Crosby crooned it, along with the Pennsylvanians, over the car radio last Friday afternoon. Even playing the same recording on yesterday morning's broadcast didn't help me a bit. My thoughts are still a-wandering right back to where "gates are the rustiest, pies are the crustiest, and friends are the truest."

Not, of course, that I'm very far from home. I've done a bit of meandering in my time, but the fact remains that I was born here and have been here most of my life . . . and I'm as sentimental about our hills, people, and community advantages as I can ever hope to be about anything.

Just yesterday, for instance, I was counting my blessings, as Irving Berlin warns us to do in his new song. And I was thinking how wonderful it is to be able to enjoy the beauties of springtime and autumn right here in a very lovely little part of the world where disaster, thank heaven, is an almost unknown word. I was thinking how lucky I am to earn my daily bread in a place where I am treated like, and respected as, a human being. I felt snug as a bug in a rug, when I thought back to all the kind things that have been done for me and said to me in the past several weeks when I've needed an extra measure of understanding.

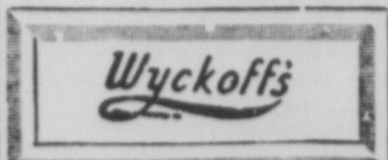

I began thinking too about some of the people around me . . . people who don't mind at all expending their energies and their physical well-being for a good cause or another person. Just this past Monday night, for instance, I attended a meeting of the Monroe County Heart Committee. Five doctors were there—five very busy men who probably couldn't spare the time, but who were doing it nonetheless because they, more than perhaps anyone else, recognize the urgency and need.

Then, on Tuesday morning, the women of our store were addressed by Mrs. James Coleman, chairman of the all-women blood donor campaign, being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Woman's Club on Monday, October 18th, at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian church. Mrs. Coleman, despite all her family responsibilities, takes time to call community attention to the needs of others. There are our own Margaret LaBar and Agnes Holdorf who have each given blood ten times, and Audrey Wilkins who was the first to sign up yesterday.

On the editorial page of the newspaper, I found Horace Heller's excellent article on the Children's Clothing Committee, and the fine work being done by Mr. Merle Ostrom, Mrs. Foster Mimich, Attorney Arlington Williams and my boss, Busy people all of them, trying to talk generosity into hundreds of well-meaning but thoughtless, seemingly indifferent people, for a cause that is intensely vital. I stopped to read the Community Chest posters, all of them begging for support and representing the efforts of business men like Chairman Walter Wyckoff, one penny or one favor from anyone. Somehow I was touched by the humility and sincere beauty of it all.

I'm not sure just why I wrote this type of a column today. Surely it doesn't sell Wyckoff merchandise. Maybe it's simply an answer to the unhappy woman who wrote me a few weeks ago telling me she can't stand me or my column or my radio program—although she reads one and listens to the other—because "I've had nothing but trouble, and you never seem to have any. You always seem cheerful. Life just isn't fair."

Well, I've had a headache or three in 39 years . . . but I still think it's pretty wonderful to live in the world that God gave us with some of the wonderful people it created.

Newspapers Vital Force In Community

By ALFRED WILLOUGHBY
Executive Director
National Municipal League

IN THE long struggle for good government and a competent citizenry it is gratifying to observe that newspapers increasingly are accepting the responsibility for ideal civic leadership that is peculiarly theirs.

It is rare now-a-days that a power-thirsty newspaper owner will wreck a sound city administration just to prove he is God as has been done in recent years in only a couple of cities.

More often we find men who not only fight the good fight in their news and editorial columns but also wear themselves out speaking night after night; or who speak to luncheon clubs all over the state to supplement their editorial crusades; or who never poke fun at prominent citizens who run for public office or become civic leaders.

Outstanding newspapers and newspaper men are too numerous for specific listing. In many of their offices hang Pulitzer, George K. Polk, Sigma Delta Chi and All-America City awards, attesting to their leadership in community betterment efforts.

Instead they send good men to the American Press Institute, to try for the Nieman Fellowships, and to the National Conference on Government for what might be called refresher courses in what's new about running the public's business.

The National Conference on Government, held in a different American city each year by the National Municipal League since it was founded in 1954, is a unique gathering of business, civic and educational leaders who, in 25 to 30 sessions, cope with problems of government and citizenship for a four-day period.

The earnest quest for facts and background is reflected in the growing volume of inquiries received by the National Municipal League from newspapers and mag-

Martin Aide To Address Kiwanis Club

COL. LEROY GREENE, an assistant to U. S. Sen. Edward Martin in his Washington offices, will be the National Newspaper Week speaker before Kiwanis Club today.

A former newspaperman himself, Greene is also the author of numerous magazine articles and of the first history of Pennsylvania's 100 governors. He once worked for the Philadelphia Public Ledger as a feature reporter, foreign correspondent and science editor.

Greene was appointed to Sen. Martin's staff on July 9, 1953 after his active participation in the 1952 political campaign during which he served as "advance man" for the Eisenhower campaign train.

One of Greene's books, "Shelter for His Excellency," is a standard reference work. It deals with the history of the executive mansion and the men who occupied the governor's post in this State.

Greene is a healthy sign and is one of the reasons why newspapers are likely to remain the greatest potential force for local civic leadership.

What any self-governing democracy needs most is an informed, responsible, participating citizenry.

Little Red Schoolhouses Dwindle To 48,000 Total

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The little red schoolhouse is on the way out, and regardless of what song-writers may think, educators are glad of it.

The National Conference on Rural Education is in full swing today, and this statistic was happily tossed about:

In 1948 there were 75,000 one-room schools in this country. Now there are only 48,000.

Going, going, gone, in the yellow bus to the big, new consolidated schoolhouse.

"For the first time in the history of our country," Willard E. Goslin of George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., told a reporter, "we have said the farm boy has as much right to go to school as the city boy has."

"Oh, we've always said that, in theory. The kid who lives 20 miles out was free to attend school—if he could find a way to get there."

Goslin says this country has passed through three stages in its attitude toward education.

At first, any talk of education meant rural education since that's about all there was. Then the cities grew and education went urban.

and the ideal school was the big city or suburban school.

"Only recently have we understood that a good school is one that serves its community best," Goslin said. "It would be silly, don't you see, for a school in the cotton delta country to be doing exactly the same thing as a city school."

Taking them all into consideration, Goslin says he doesn't think country schools have caught up with city schools completely.

"Too many teachers with only a couple of years of college, and too many tiny high schools with 100 pupils or less, where students don't have much of a choice in what they can take."

"But you can say this," Goslin said. "Some rural schools are every bit as good as city schools and I see no reason why a potential young scientist can't come from a country school as well as from a city system."

East Stroudsburg High School's football victory string was snapped as sharp as a clothes line in a hurricane last Friday night as Bangor's powerhouse rolled to a 31-19 verdict over the previously unblemished Cavaliers. The game had many oddities, chief among which was the fact that the 31 points was the most totaled against an East Stroudsburg High grid machine in three years. Another odd factor was 50 points in the game, an unusually high total for a high school encounter.

It was agreed by virtually all East Stroudsburg backers that the best team won, at least the best team last Friday night. It was pretty much the general consensus of opinion that the outcome was held in the balance by the play of the respective lines. Bangor's offensive line repeatedly was too much for the defensive forward wall guardians of the N. Courtland St. school. This reporter was informed that the back-ups and halfbacks made more than half of the tackles for East Stroudsburg.

Lou Casciano was praised by one and all as a fine football player. He reportedly was equally as good at end or half-back, depending upon the position which Bangor coach (Granny) Evans had in mind for the hard working griddler. Many believe that Casciano who missed all of last season with a broken leg, was the two teams. The work of Bangor quarterback Dick Hess came in for much praise, too, much of it coming from Jack Kist, East Stroudsburg's very popular football mentor.

Kist was plainly disappointed with the work of his defensive line, but the former Wilson Borough High and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College star, was satisfied with his offense. Jack pointed out that 19 points are enough to win virtually any high school game, providing the defense holds up its end of the bargain. But such wasn't the case last Friday night as approximately 3,000 people at Bangor's Memorial Park saw both teams concentrate only on offense, with passing and brilliant runs dominating the battle completely.

This is the second straight year in which Bangor has ended East Stroudsburg winning streaks at three straight games. Last season the Slaters turned in a 20-0 decision at Memorial Stadium. Last year the Cavaliers bounced back and resumed their winning ways and there's no reason to believe that the situation will be any different this year, except that Lehigh is laying in wait for the Cavaliers this Saturday night, at Lehigh.

The running of Gene Plaza and Bob "Red" Kupiszewski highlighted East Stroudsburg's offense, while Bill Sommers drew down special praise for his defensive work against enemy passes. Sommers later in the game suffered a "chipped" bone in his left ankle and will be out of action for approximately six weeks. His loss will be felt by the Cavaliers, but they must fill the gap and forget about their recent defeat if the present campaign is to be successful.

East Stroudsburg will run into a Lehigh club that is just brimming with confidence that it can inflict a second straight lacing on the Cavaliers, even though it has won only one of three games played thus far this season. The Lehigh coaching staff has scouted Eastburg in each of its outings and the Indians will be out in full war paint Saturday night, at Lehigh, in an effort to pull the unexpected. There's no doubt the Cavaliers will have to be at their best to win.

Bangor on the other hand faces possibly the toughest foe in the Lehigh-Northampton League this season on Saturday, when the Slaters run into Wilson Borough. The game will be played at Wilson and undoubtedly will be one of approximately four key contests to be played this season, as far as the championship is concerned. Both clubs will be short-handed in players for the game and breaks may go a long way in deciding the issue. Bangor lost the services of Duane Miller, its leading back.

The Bangor victory last Friday puts the Slaters in a very fine position as far as the championship struggle is concerned at the present time. The loss certainly doesn't eliminate the Cavaliers from pennant contention—not by a long shot. I firmly believe the championship situation rests on the strength of Bangor's and East Stroudsburg's showing against Wilson Borough and Nazareth. There's plenty of yardage to be covered before they begin crowning any title holders this season.

Martin Finds Answers To Many Queries

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—A lot of World Series television viewers still are wondering how a 341-hitter such as Bobby Avila could look so downright ridiculous as he did in taking a half-hearted, baffled swing at a ball pitched by Hoyt Wilhelm that was so high and wide he couldn't have touched it with a bat six feet long. It was easy, Chuck Dressen explains. "It was a strike when Avila started to swing," the new Senator manager explained. "Hoyt Wilhelm grips his knuckler like this," Dressen made a claw of his right hand.

"He digs into the ball with his finger nails. He can't tell how it will break. That pitch just got up and outward as it neared the plate, that's all. You've seen how a catcher weaves around with a big mitt trying to get it in front of the ball. Imagine how it is trying to hit the pitch with a bat that is only this big around."

In defeat, and what a defeat, Al Lopez probably made more friends among the sports writers than any other manager in a World Series, whether winner or loser. The handsome fellow from the Ybor City section of Tampa never lost his aplomb. He had time for everyone, was always gentle and courteous, and kept his sense of humor under the most trying circumstances. We still can see him giving Bob Lemon an understanding pat on the shoulder when he took him out of the game in the fifth inning of the final game. It was a gesture you might expect from a guy of his class.

Eddie Stanky, looking quite small and boyish, was very much in evidence at the Series. He was explaining why Stan Musial failed to win the National League batting championship.

Musial usually has at least one slump during a season, but it usually is early, or midway, in the race, and he finishes up with a tremendous surge. This year his slump came at the end. "Stan was hitting the ball well," Stanky said. "But he was hitting line drives directly at the fielders. It was just one of those things."

We were standing talking to Freddie Hutchinson in a Cleveland hotel lobby. The conversation was of this and that, but mostly about the Detroit Tigers, and he was explaining how some of the younger players came through for him, and speculating on the outlook for next year. A man came up and said: "Say, I hear Buckey Harris got the Detroit job?"

That was the first we had heard of it, and we looked at Hutchinson questioningly. He shrugged. "Yeh," he said casually. "I knew I was out yesterday. I wanted a two-year contract; they insisted on one. That's all there was to it."

They still are arguing whether or not Cleveland's all-out effort to win 111 games and become the winningest team in American League history had anything to do with the Indians winding up as one of the losingest teams in World Series history.

Some argue that players such as Al Rosen and Vic Wertz and Larry Doby, who had their aches and pains, could have used a rest after the pennant had been clinched. Could be, but we always think of the Cardinals in 1942.

They had to battle right down to the wire to beat out the Dodgers by two games. The Yankees won in a breeze, with the second-place Red Sox 10 games astern. And all these embattled and battered Cardinals could do was whip the well-rested New Yorkers in the Series, four games to two.

Senators Drop Manush From Staff

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Coach Heinie Manush was dismissed by the Washington Senators today. He follows Manager "Bucky" Harris and Coach George Myatt, who were let out at the close of the season.

Only two of the Senators' present coaches will stay with the club, Griffith said. They are Joe Fitzgerald, bullpen coach, and Joe Haynes, pitching coach.

Salas Defeats Varona

Atlantic City Race Course Police Arrest Suspected Counterfeit Gang At Track

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 5 (AP)—Robert J. Ryder, head of the Atlantic City Race Course police department, was commended today by track officials for his part in the apprehension of four men here on Saturday.

The men were taken into custody following an alert from West Virginia officials in connection with the counterfeiting of mutual

Muhlenberg Hopeful Of Ending Losing Habit In Grid Battle With Lafayette On Saturday

ALLENTOWN, Oct. 5—This Saturday night at Allentown High School Stadium, Muhlenberg will open its home season against Lafayette.

The Mules haven't had much luck in their first two games on the road, and will welcome the opportunity to perform before a hometown crowd.

They will be facing a team that has broken even in two starts, whitewashing Albright 26-0, and dropping a close 23-21 verdict to Carnegie Tech last week.

The Leopards figure to be up for their encounter with the local gridders, for the Mules have posted triumphs over their Eastern rivals two years in succession. The Maroon and White absorbed a 37-0 shellacking in 1952, and last year succumbed to Jackie McDonald's superb Maxwell Award-winning performance by a 20-7 count.

MINUS ONE—East Stroudsburg High had three passers on its football team until Billy Sommers, center, suffered a "chipped" bone in his left ankle against Bangor last Friday—now it has two. The two aerial artists remaining are Bob "Red" Kupiszewski (60) and Dick Gray (40). Gray and Kupiszewski will be in action against Lehigh Saturday night. (Staff Photo by Riley)

Several Clubs Show Interest In Making Deals With Dodgers

BROOKLYN, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers disclosed today they are "talking deals" with several clubs, but said there's been no bid offered for Jackie Robinson.

"No one has offered us a quarter for Robinson," Buzzy Bavasi, Dodger vice president, said. "That doesn't mean he doesn't have value. I am merely stating a fact."

Bavasi said several clubs are interested in Brooklyn pitchers but added Don Newcombe is not on the Brooklyn trading list.

"Lots of players take a year to get over Army life," he added, "and maybe that's what's wrong with Newcombe."

No particular deals were mentioned but the Philadelphia Phillies are reported interested in outfielder Carl Furillo in a straight swap for the Phillies' "Granny" Hammer.

Other clubs are reported anxious to land third baseman Billy Cox.

Rams Shrug Off Charges

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams indicated more or less amusement than distress today over "dirty football" charges hurled their way by the San Francisco 49ers.

Coach Hampton Pool said a minute study of the game movies refute the 49ers' broad accusations stemming from the 24-24 tie battle which cost both teams heavily in casualties.

Texas Schram, assistant to president Dan Reeves, said he didn't care to carry on the debate, but noted:

"Let's 'em talk about last week's game. We're too busy getting ready for our next opponent at the champion Detroit Lions at Detroit Sunday."

Powell Regains Michigan Crown

DETROIT, Oct. 5 (AP)—George Powell, 185, Detroit, came out of retirement to win back the Michigan heavyweight boxing championship tonight from John Sumner, 200, also of Detroit, in a two-to-two slugfest that had a capacity crowd howling at Motor City Arena.

Sanders Draws With Whitehurst

BOSTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Big Ed Sanders, 216, of Boston, the 1952 Olympic heavyweight boxing champion, survived an early pounding, and rallied in the late rounds to night to gain a draw with Bur Whitehurst, 196½, of Baltimore, in a 10-rounder at Boston Arena.

In a companion 10-round feature, Tommy Tibbs, 130½, of Cambridge, Mass., stopped New England featherweight champ Harold Gimes, 127, of Providence, R. I., at 2:15 of the ninth round of a non-title fight.

The title doesn't change hands due to the fact that it was a non-title scrap.

This year a red-hot duel for ground-gaining honors is in prospect between McDonald and Satterlee, Leopard left halfback. The diminutive McDonald, who played all but a few minutes of the Bucknell and Albright frays, once again leads Berg's ground gainers.

Satterlee, who notched three touchdowns against Albright, continued his sterling play in the Tech game, scoring another touchdown against the Tartans to bring his season's point total to 28.

Satterlee and company have powered their way to 561 yards on the ground in two games, and will provide a severe test for the Muhlenberg defenses.

Coach Tom Triplett is hopeful that injured backs Tony Frey and Harry Kreutzberg will be able to return to action this Saturday and add some badly needed punch to the Mules' attack.

Lopez Turns Mental Energy Toward Yanks

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 5 (AP)—Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, returned home today, thinking more about the 1955 New York Yankees than losing the World Series to the New York Giants in four straight games.

"They had a great team and would have beaten anybody," Lopez said of the Giants. "You can't take anything from them. They had a great team."

"The Yankees... will be stronger in 1955," he told Sports Editor Byron of the Tampa Tribune.

"They are still the team to beat in the American League and from here out all my baseball thoughts will be on how to beat them."

He said he was afraid 1955 might be "a tough year" for Cleveland.

"After all you don't win 111 games every season and I don't think we will be that good next year."

Tomorrow the city will give Lopez an official welcome, with a parade, street dancing, and a presentation of keys to the city and to Al Lopez Field, Tampa's new baseball park.

Lehigh Squad Needs Polish

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 5—Lehigh University's football forces need to polish their ground game as indicated in statistics for the first two games played.

The Engineers have netted only two yards per rushing attempt in 65 tries against Virginia and Delaware.

Tom Gloede, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., senior quarterback, is the leading ground gainer for the Brown and White. He has accounted for 150 yards; all but three as a result of 13 out of 27 forward passes.

Dave Walters trails Gloede with 109 yards total offense. He is the ground rushing leader, returning 85 yards, and added 24 via the aerial route.

Captain Harry Stotz, Valhalla, N. Y., senior fullback, leads the Lehigh punters with a 44.3 yard average. Walters is second with a 40.8 average. Walters also is the runback leader, returning five rival punts for 23 yards and three enemy kickoffs for 66 yards.

Rain Forces Pitt Inside

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—Heavy rain forced Pitt's football team to move indoors to the university's field house today for its daily drills.

Meanwhile, trainer Howard Waite announced that sophomore end Dick Scherer will be ready for the Panthers' game Saturday with Notre Dame.

Scherer caught a pass for the only Pitt touchdown as Southern California whipped the Panthers 27-7 in the season opener September 24.

He was held out of last week's Minnesota game because of a bad shoulder.

Change Made On Fight Program

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Fient promoter Norm Rothschild today said Alvin Goren of Detroit would fight Cronin Barillo here October 15, instead of Johnny Lombardo.

Rothschild said Lombardo's manager, Connie Noonan, had decided he would have too little time to get his fighter in shape for the bout and asked to withdraw.

phons Billeto and Eckard Brown, were taken into custody by the track police and turned over to New Jersey State Troopers. Mutual tickets from Atlantic City and Wheeling Downs were found in the car.

Ryder then dispatched members of his force with a State Trooper detail in charge of Sgt. Jesse Souder to various motels within a few miles of the race course.

Membership Drive To Be Continued

POSSIBILITY of a basketball tournament to be held during the Christmas Holidays was the chief topic of discussion at the Varsity "E" Club business meeting held at East Stroudsburg High School last night.

The tournament, if held, will feature the top four clubs in the final standings of the Monroe County League last year, providing they accept invitations, and possibly teams from both Wayne and Pike counties.

Kirk Shaw, new club president, announced last night that Reg

Varsity 'S' Meeting

A MEETING of the Varsity "S" Club will be held at Gap View Inn on Friday, at 7:30 p.m. It was announced last night by Sam Everett, organization president. Plans will be made for the coming year.

Nauman, recently retired president, would send letters of invitation to the tournament in the very near future.

The tournament, which will be an annual affair if successful, is being held in an effort to help support the many projects to be undertaken by the Varsity "E" Club, including the lighting system recently installed at Memorial Stadium. Approximately $5,000 still remains to be settled on the permanent system now in use at the football field.

Various loose ends of the lighting system drive was discussed and plans made for future action.

Shaw also asked that anyone wishing to volunteer for the job of transporting high school football players home after practice may do so by contacting Nauman or himself. The club has been taking boys living in Portland home after each practice session this year and needs some new blood to keep the project in motion.

The club is also continuing its drive for new memberships. New cards will be presented to all members in the very near future. Next cards issued will expire on December 31, 1955, and the practice of expiring on the last day of each year will continue in the future.

Other topics of minor business were also brought before the meeting, which found Shaw serving as active president for the first time. Nauman, former president, retired at a meeting held last week.

A total of approximately 20 members were present at last night's meeting.

The next club gathering, also to be held at East Stroudsburg High, will be held on Tuesday, October 26, at 7:30 p.m.

Syracuse Wins First Game

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5 (AP)—A two-hitter fashioned by John Meyer and Kent Peterson gave Syracuse a 6-3 victory over Louisville tonight in a rain-shortened seven inning game of the Little World Series.

Louisville now leads two games to one.

Meyer, strikeout leader of the International League, had his only trouble with bases on balls. He walked nine Colonels in the six and two-thirds innings he pitched before giving way to Peterson.

Meyer's strikeout touch was missing, however, as he fanned only two Colonels.

George Susce, first of four Louisville hurlers, was in trouble from the start.

Holes-In-One Are Really Easy

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5 (AP)—Charles P. Simms, who tees his golf ball high and swings with all his might, claims an accomplishment perhaps rarer than a hole-in-one.

He executed a neat "tee-in-one" by cutting furiously under the teed ball, whizzing backspin carried the ball straight up and Simms caught it without moving.

Simms philosophized that it was an economical extra stroke—he didn't have to stop to pick up his ball.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—Darrell Royal, an All-American from Oklahoma now coaching at Mississippi State, is the youngest head coach in the Southeastern Conference. He was 30 last July 6.

U. S. Davis Cup Committee To Name Four Players Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The United States Davis Cup committee meets Thursday to pick a team for the annual Australian tennis pilgrimage, and there's no hiding its concern over Vic Seixas' sudden loss of form.

'Muscle' Does Grid Damage

BURLINGAME, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Bob Casho, a reserve guard on the Burlingame High School football squad, developed a shiner during scrimmage last night.

Asked what happened, Casho replied: "I was hit by a guided muscle."

Mikan Buys Court Stock

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—George Mikan, in somewhat uneasy retirement, today became general manager of the Minneapolis Lakers in a move which may foreshadow his return as an active player.

Mikan, who announced his retirement 12 days ago after more than a decade of unrivaled stardom in college and professional basketball, bought General Manager Max Winter's stock in the club and succeeded him in the front office.

Thus at 30 he becomes vice president of the club which his remarkable scoring prodded to six championships in seven years.

While he disclaimed any "present plans" to return as a player, Mikan commented that "as general manager I will do anything I can to help the club." It was felt by some that Mikan might end his retirement if the team runs into serious trouble.

Mikan was a college star at DePaul University and led that school to the top of the list.

Dancer Retires To Stud Farm

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Grand pop Discovery gave up the first bedroom today to the biggest racing success of the family, Native Dancer.

The grey horse came home to Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm in suburban Baltimore after winning 21 of 22 races.

He was through with running after little more than two years because of leg injuries. But he left behind an unequalled record and brought with him a bankroll of $785,240.

Discovery has been Vanderbilt's number one stallion for many years. He gave up his stall, however, to Native Dancer who will start breeding next year. The fee for a mare to be courted by Native Dancer probably will be $5,000.

Seixas, a disappointment in the Davis Cup competition in Australia last December, was beaten in straight sets by Gustavo Palafox of Mexico in the American zone finals Saturday and was given a hard battle yesterday by 21-year-old Mario Llanas. The American managed to win the series, 4-1.

Seixas, who hit peak form in the National tournament at Forest Hills, is a cinch for a spot on the Davis Cup team. Tony Trabert, who won the U. S. title in 1953, and much-improved Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., also are team certainties.

The fourth place is up in the air. It's a good bet the berth will go to either Lefty Bernard Barten of San Angelo, Tex., or Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J. Bill Talbert will return as captain.

Pirates Search For Waivers

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today asked for waivers on veteran infielder Eddie Pellagrini and disclosed the purchase of a new infielder from Denver of the class "A" Western League.

The new infielder is third baseman Reno Debenedetti, 24, the Western League's 1954 batting champion. He hit .331 and also led the league in hits with 183 and doubles with 39.

Debenedetti, a righthander all the way, is a native of San Francisco.

The Pirates asked waivers on Pellagrini to give the 24-year-old infielder his unconditional release. Pellagrini spent two seasons with the Pirates. He was obtained on waivers from Cincinnati in 1953.

Antonelli, Garcia Stingy With Runs

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Lefty Johnny Antonelli of the Giants and Mike Garcia, Cleveland's husky righthander, continued an interesting trend by winning the major league earned run titles in 1954.

Antonelli, with a 2.29 average, was the seventh southpaw in the past nine seasons to win earned run honors in the National League. Garcia, posting a 2.64 ERA, became the fourth righthanded hurler in five campaigns to lead the American League in that department.

The recent southpaw trend in the National League started with Howie Pollet, then of the St. Louis Cardinals, capturing the crown in 1946. He was followed by Warren Spahn of the then Boston Braves in '47, Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the Cards in '48 and Dave Koss of the Giants in '49.

Jim Hearn, a righthander performing for both the Cards and Giants, broke the spell in 1950, but southpaw Chet Nichols of the Braves topped the listings in '51. Another righty, Hoyt Wilhelm of the Giants, was the '52 pace-setter, but Spahn again led a year ago.

The current trend to the right in the American League began in 1950 when another Indians' moundman, Early Wynn, won. Saul Rogovin, splitting the season with the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox, had the lowest average in '51 and the New York Yankees' Allie Reynolds followed suit in '52. Left-hander Ed Lopat, also of the Yanks, snapped the string last season.

Antonelli, instrumental in the pennant and World Series success of the Giants, allowed 66 earned runs in 259 innings, according to figures compiled by the Associated Press. The 26-year-old ace had a 21-7 won-loss record and pitched six shutouts, most in the league. His .750 won-loss percentage also tied him for the lead with teammate Wilhelm.

Milwaukee's Lew Burdette was runner-up in the National League with 2.81 and Ruben Gomez, another Giants' stalwart, finished third at 2.84. Burdette gave up 74 earned runs in 237 frames and Gomez 70 in 222.

Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phils was fourth with 2.92 and teammate Robin Roberts was next with 2.96. Then came a pair of Milwaukee hurlers, rookie Gene Conley, 2.97 and Spahn, 3.15.

Garcia won 19 and lost eight while limiting the opposition to 76 earned runs in 259 innings. The 30-year-old Big Bear racked up five shutouts and was particularly stingy in giving up home runs. Only six homers were hit off him.

In order to be eligible for earned run honors, a pitcher must work 154 innings.

Sandy Consuegra of the White Sox was second in ERA with 2.67, having been solved for 46 earned runs in 155 innings. His 16-3 record gave him the highest won-loss percentage, .862.

The other two members of Cleveland's big three, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon, tied for third place with 2.72 each. Wynn yielded 82 earned runs in 271 innings and Lemon 78 in 258.

Detroit's Steve Gmelek ranked fifth at 2.77, followed by Virgil Trucks of the White Sox and Ned Garver of Detroit, 2.78 and Whitely Ford of the Yanks, 2.82.

Harry, one of the all-time greats as far as the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League is concerned, made two appearances with the New York Yankees in 1952 and started two regular season games, one against the Detroit Tigers and the other against the Washington Senators.

The lanky southpaw also saw action several times in relief that season and also faced the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition contest.

Schaeffer worked for Kansas City in 1953 and last season divided his time between Toronto, pennant winner in the International League, and Toledo, of the American Association.

Harry worked 25 innings of relief for Toronto and featured a 2-4 earned run average at the end of the season. His record was two wins and no defeats.

Schaeffer was purchased by the Yankees at the end of the 1947 campaign and labored through the farm system before hitting the headlines with a record of 19 wins and nine defeats with Beaumont, of the class "AA" Texas League, in 1951. He won three more games in the playoffs that season for a grand total of 22 victories. He joined the Yankees in the spring of 1952.

Harry was also well known as a basketball player in this area while attending college.

Schaeffer, a resident of Shillington, Pa., is married and the father of two children.

American League Prestige Drops To Lowest Level In Many Years Following Cleveland Loss

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—American League prestige dropped to its lowest level in many years when the New York Giants humbled Cleveland, its winningest champion, in four straight World Series games.

"The rest of the league ought to sue the Indians for libel," Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, was quoted.

Casey Stengel, whose New York Yankees were beaten by Cleveland after winning five straight, made a whimsical observation.

"Well, this sure don't make me look any better," he said. "And we still finished second. How about those other fellows who finished in back of me?"

Even Fred Haney, the man who suffered through another cellar year in Pittsburgh, said jokingly, "We're in the wrong league, except for the fact we had some real lousy days. I'd almost believe we could beat the Indians."

The Indians, of course, were not as bad as they looked. Nor were the Giants as good as they seemed. The real cause for alarm in American League circles is the lack of balance and the pitiful condition of some of the second division clubs.

For years American League

men have joked about the National as "the minor league." When the National started to win the All-Star games four in a row until 1954 they always could say, "Wait until we get you in the World Series." The National, lacking a world champ since 1916, didn't have much to say.

Actually, the National has been the home run league of the majors since 1946. In the 1954 season, National League sluggers hit 1,114 home runs to 823 by the American. Every club in the National except Pittsburgh, had 100 homers or more. Only three in the American hit the century mark.

Pit Anxious To Regain Lost Ground Against Notre Dame

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—"Two poor performances don't mean a football team is through. We'll bounce back and it will be no later than Saturday afternoon against Notre Dame."

That statement was voiced by Captain Tom Hamilton, Pitt's athletic director, at a luncheon today for newsmen.

The luncheon is a weekly get-together to talk over the preceding week's football game. Coach Louell "Dad" Dawson was there.

Dawson also wasn't available after Saturday's 46-7 drubbing at the hands of an underdog Minnesota team. He did leave a chalk scribbled note on the blackboard reading:

"We played for only 30 minutes." So Hamilton took over for Dawson. And the former Navy man really lashed down the hatch.

"The season is only two nights gone," fumed Hamilton. "We've still got seven to go. We've got a good football team. We'll show 'em and it won't be later than Saturday afternoon . . ."

"I'm no Pollyanna. We're going to play good football. The kids haven't found themselves but they will. I've got 100 per cent confidence in them and the coaching staff."

Speaking of the coaching, the Panther's athletic board gave Dawson a vote of confidence last night at a meeting that Hamilton termed "spontaneous" on the part of the nine-member committee.

But the committee also will meet tomorrow. Hamilton said it will be an executive session, meaning everybody on the board will be there. What they'll talk about is anybody's guess.

The guess here is Dawson. His three-year contract expires at the end of the season and with two losses to date and a suicidal schedule still to go—well?

The game Saturday against the Irish at Pitt Stadium is a sellout. It has been for weeks. Some 62,000 will jam the Oakland area for the contest, the first sellout in years. The Irish, who lost last week to Purdue 27-14, rate 13½ point favorites over the Panthers.

Schaeffer To Retire From Baseball

HARRY SCHAEFFER, star left handed pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1946 and 1947, plans to retire from baseball and has accepted a teaching position at Denver, Pa.

Schaeffer, also a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, made his decision known in a letter to Jim Riley, sports editor of The Daily Record, yesterday.

Harry, one of the all-time greats as far as the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League is concerned, made two appearances with the New York Yankees in 1952 and started two regular season games, one against the Detroit Tigers and the other against the Washington Senators.

The lanky southpaw also saw action several times in relief that season and also faced the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition contest.

Shippensburg Gridders Lead Conference

JOHNSTOWN, Oct. 5—Bloomsburg, Kutztown and Shippensburg last weekend opened their bid for the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Football Conference title with wins.

Bloomsburg tallied 21 points in the first quarter and went on to defeat the big Mansfield Mountaineers, 28-0. Kutztown blanked Cheyney, 25-0, and Shippensburg had trouble beating Edinboro, 7-0.

In other conference games California eliminated Indiana, 18-7, and Lock Haven bounced back from a Shippensburg defeat to better Millersville, 13-0.

Shippensburg leads the conference by virtue of Lock Haven's win, according to the Saylor-system of ratings which figures heavily on caliber of opposition.

The Red Raiders stopped the 1953 NCAA passing champions, New Haven, 26-19, for their 18th straight victory. The Raiders are expected to run into plenty of trouble against an improved East Stroudsburg eleven on Saturday.

In other conference games next Saturday, Edinboro seeks its first win of the season at Indiana. Millersville hopes to stop its losing streak at 11 games when Kutztown appears in the Lancaster County town and California will be seeking its third straight win with Lock Haven providing the opposition.

STC conference standings:

Team	W.	L.	Rating
Shippensburg	1	0	250
California	1	0	240
EDINBORO	1	0	230
Bloomsburg	1	0	220

Name Title In Danger

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Oct. 5 (AP)—A Colorado A&M College freshman end will bid next season for the long name title in Rocky Mountain football now held by Wyoming's Joe Mastrogiovanni (14 letters) from Brooklyn.

There are two more letters in the formidable handle of Bill Niemantsverdriet. It's pronounced "Nee-mantz-ver-drite," with the accent on the final syllable, but everybody calls him Nymy.

He was a stellar end for Jefferson High at Lafayette, Ind.

Extra Hole Play Decides

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 5 (AP)—Two closely fought matches, both going to the 21st hole, highlighted the first round of the championship flights in the men's and women's divisions of the Homestead's 42nd invitational fall golf tournament here today.

R. H. Semple of Sewickley, Pa., defeated John Barclay of Greensburg, Pa., one up, on the 21st hole over the rough, 6,740-yard, par 71 Cascades course.

Mrs. M. B. Davis of Dundalk, Md., playing the 5,133-yard par 72 Homestead course, defeated Mrs. Beverly Shriver of Pittsburgh, Pa., one up, on the 21st hole in the headline match of the women's division.

San Francisco, Oct. 5 (AP)—Charlie Powell, the former professional football player who has the heavyweight division buzzing after 32 fights, faces his first really stiff test here tomorrow night in a scheduled 10-rounder with Charley Norkus of Port Washington, N.Y.

The battle will be nationally televised (10 p.m. EST). It will be Powell's initial showing before a countrywide screen audience.

Powell, a 22-year-old six foot three better, starred as a defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers before trading football gear for boxing gloves. He is expected to weigh 212 pounds for this bout.

The former all around high school athlete of San Diego is being talked up as a challenger to champion "Rocky" Marciano after a dozen fights. Veteran ringersiders are reserving judgment until they see Powell tagged on the chin with some heavy punches.

Norkus, the most experienced opponent Powell has come up against, throws a powerful right. He's scored 14 knockouts in 36 fights.

"I've spoiled some other guys who were regarded as up and coming geniuses," Norkus said, "and I intend to do the same thing with this upstart."

Toth Expected To Make First Appearance

EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College is currently hard at work preparing for Saturday's long awaited football tussle with undefeated Shippensburg State Teachers College, on the Normal Hill Field.

Gene Martin, head coach of the ESSTC contingent, announced last night that his charges came through last Saturday's battle with Ithaca College in good shape, with only injury being reported.

The lone injury befell Carmen Martucci, former Lehigh High star. Martucci came up with a damaged right knee and hasn't taken part in any heavy work thus far this week.

Martin expects Martucci to be ready for Saturday's big game and has obtained a special brace to guard against further injury to the hard playing tackle.

The ESSTC mentor is also hopeful that Don Toth, veteran back, will be ready for action against a Shippensburg contingent that will bring a winning streak of 18 games, longest in Pennsylvania college ranks, to town Saturday. Toth hasn't been in action this season because of an injured knee.

Martin would also like to see Guido DeTorrice, highly rated halfback, but the ball-toter's right ankle has failed to respond to treatment and he may be forced to miss his second straight contest this weekend.

The Warriors began preparation for Saturday's tussle on Monday and will work right through Friday.

Martin plans to concentrate on passing, both from an offensive and defensive standpoint. The Warriors are also learning several new plays for Saturday's encounter.

ESSTC will take part in heavy drills today and tomorrow, with light work on the agenda for Friday.

Shippensburg will feature Spencer Keyes, one of the most talked about players in Pennsylvania. The brilliant Negro star will run out of the tailback post and carry most of the Shippensburg ground gaining punch. Saturday's visiting contingent runs out of the single wing formation.

Both Shippensburg and ESSTC have records of two wins and no defeats this season. The Warriors have won over Millersville and Ithaca College, while Shippensburg has taken the measure of Lock Haven and New Haven State Teachers Colleges.

Saturday's kickoff is carded for 2 p.m.

Los Angeles End Injured

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5 (AP)—Big Bob Carey, one of the Los Angeles Rams' excellent ends, is out of action for the rest of the year with a broken leg and the club today signed Bill Bowers as a replacement.

Carey, All-America in college at Michigan State, was injured in the Ram-San Francisco 49er game Sunday. Movies show that Carey was blocking for halfback "Skeet" Quinlan.

Apparently the break came when he and Quinlan hit the turf together.

Bowers played service ball after graduation from the University of Southern California. He was signed as a free agent this year and subsequently cut from the squad.

San Francisco, Oct. 5 (AP)—Charlie Powell, the former professional football player who has the heavyweight division buzzing after 32 fights, faces his first really stiff test here tomorrow night in a scheduled 10-rounder with Charley Norkus of Port Washington, N.Y.

The battle will be nationally televised (10 p.m. EST). It will be Powell's initial showing before a countrywide screen audience.

Powell, a 22-year-old six foot three better, starred as a defensive end for the San Francisco 49ers before trading football gear for boxing gloves. He is expected to weigh 212 pounds for this bout.

The former all around high school athlete of San Diego is being talked up as a challenger to champion "Rocky" Marciano after a dozen fights. Veteran ringersiders are reserving judgment until they see Powell tagged on the chin with some heavy punches.

Norkus, the most experienced opponent Powell has come up against, throws a powerful right. He's scored 14 knockouts in 36 fights.

"I've spoiled some other guys who were regarded as up and coming geniuses," Norkus said, "and I intend to do the same thing with this upstart."

Carter To Train For November Title Fight At Harry's Farm

JIMMY CARTER, former lightweight boxing champion, is anxiously awaiting the signal to resume training for his Wednesday, November 17, championship bout with present title holder Paddy DeMarco, in San Francisco.

During a telephone conversation with Jim Riley, sports editor of The Daily Record, yesterday Carter revealed from his South Ozone Park, Long Island, home that he definitely would train at Harry's Farm once again.

Harry's Farm, spacious area training camp, is located five miles above the Delaware Water Gap bridge, on the New Jersey banks of the Delaware River.

Carter reported that he is very anxious to resume training and to be in the best condition possible for next month's clash with DeMarco. Jimmy, if he should defeat DeMarco, will become the first lightweight in history to hold the crown three times.

Jimmy reported that his injured left ankle has completely healed and that the injury occurred when he slipped and fell while working out four days before last month's fight with Fred "Babe" Herman, in San Francisco.

Carter was drilling in Dolph Thomas' gymnasium when he slipped and fell, twisting the left ankle as he sank to the floor.

Willie Ketchum, Carter's manager, was all for calling off the bout, but Jimmy asked that he be allowed to go on as scheduled, due to the fact that he had made commitments for the fight.

Jimmy took a big chance in battling Herman, one of the toughest boxers in the business today, because a loss may have deprived him of another shot at the title, even though the contracts were signed.

Despite the injury Carter came through with a solid 10-round decision over Herman.

The Carter-Herman bout, on Wednesday, September 22, was a fill-in for the scheduled DeMarco-Carter title bout. DeMarco asked for a postponement of the fight because of an injured elbow. It was the second time that DeMarco had asked for a postponement of a scheduled bout with Carter.

Although no date has been set for the opening of training, Carter announced that he is hopeful that it will be within a week. A conference with Ketchum this week will probably decide the date on which the training grind will get underway.

This fight, like the last, is scheduled to San Francisco's famous Cow Palace.

Cavilan Has Other Ideas

SUMMIT, N. J., Oct. 5 (AP)—Well-known champion, "Kid" Gavilan, doesn't think Johnny Saxton is going to go to jail the day after he meets the "Kerd" in a title fight in Philadelphia, October 29.

"How he go to jail?" asked the fun-loving Gavilan at his training camp.

"First he is going to be in hospital long time. You know, he fight the champion."

Saxton was sentenced to a 15-day term for 12 traffic violations yesterday. He will start serving his time the day after the fight.

Burke-Bender Race For Ohio Senate Seat To Turn On Vote In Industrial Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 5 (AP)—The November voting of industrial Cleveland and its suburbs in Cuyahoga County appeared today to hold the answer to whether a Democrat or a Republican will occupy the Senate seat of Ohio's late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Political analysts hereabouts are inclined to look on Cuyahoga County as the key to the whole riddle of whether the new Ohio senator will be Republican George H. Bender, or Democratic Sen. Thomas A. Burke. They are running for the two years remaining of Taft's 6-year term.

The experts figure it this way: If Burke can swamp Bender in the Cleveland area, he's a winner. But if Bender gets anywhere near an even break in the Cleveland vote, he'll walk off with the election.

This situation is all the more interesting since Cuyahoga County is the home district of both Burke and Bender. Burke was mayor of Cleveland for nine years before he was appointed Oct. 12, 1953, by Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche to hold Taft's seat until the general election this fall. Bender's congressional district is the 23rd just outside Cleveland.

The Democratic strategy appears obvious: Offset Bender's vote as much as possible downstate—and pile up a big Burke majority in Cuyahoga County.

On the other hand, Bender's name is well known across the state from past races he ran for the office of representative-at-large. He is rounding out 14 years in Congress and 24 years in Ohio politics. There were times when he even outran Taft and Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio). Also he gained considerable attention as the tub-thumping cheer leader for Taft at the 1952 GOP national convention.

Ohio's 1952 voting record sheds little light on what might be expected in November. Eisenhower carried the state in 1952 by 2,100,391 votes to 1,600,367 for Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson. In Cuyahoga County, Eisenhower's majority was less than 5,000 in a total of 350,000 votes cast.

Despite the Eisenhower steamroller, Gov. Lausche rolled up a 2,015,116 vote total in the state and outran Eisenhower 408,453 to 329,465 in Cuyahoga County.

It's a debatable point whether the popularity of either Eisenhower or Lausche can be transferred to a candidate. But in a sense, the Ohio campaign represents a test between the Eisenhower and Lausche popularity even though Eisenhower isn't on the ballot.

Lausche is running for an unprecedented fifth term as governor against State Auditor James A. Rhodes, the GOP nominee. And Lausche is expected to help Burke by campaigning with him from the same platform. Just how far Lausche will go to help Burke isn't known, but Burke is counting on this support.

GOP State Chairman Ray Bliss acknowledges that one of his main tasks is to bring the GOP conservative and liberal groups together into a more active role in the campaign. He says he is succeeding and things are looking much brighter than they did two months ago.

A major Republican worry stems from the pockets of unemployment throughout the state, particularly in the automobile and steel industries.

"The race could be decided by the workers' and farmers' pocketbooks. The average person is bound to be influenced by the size of his take-home pay—and the take-home pay has dropped. This situation is working in our favor."

Women Held In Death Of Youth

LEWISTOWN, October 5 (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn Carline Barlett, 26, Lewistown mother of three children, today was arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors in a case involving the death of a 12-year-old boy Sunday.

A complaint filed with Justice of the Peace Oscar F. Brush by Pte. Quinton H. Cooper of the State Police accused Mrs. Barlett of buying wine for juveniles.

State police Cpl. Edward P. Rowan said that wine purchased by Mrs. Barlett was consumed at a Saturday party by a group of youths. The body of Ronald Logan, who was at the party, was found Sunday in the Juniata River under the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge.

Mrs. Barlett was held for Milflin County court and was released without bail on her oath to appear. Brush said that Mrs. Barlett admitted to him that she bought the wine at a state store after two youths had given her money.

Brush said she was released at the request of the state police. She appeared at the hearing with two of her three children.

Meanwhile, Rowan said he was preparing delinquency charges to be filed against five boys 9 to 15. He said a sixth person who was questioned in the case had been cleared entirely because he had only passed by as the party was in progress.

An autopsy showed Logan died of a punctured lung, liver, broken ribs and internal injuries. Rowan said his investigation led him to the death was accidental but he is continuing to search the possibility of foul play.

Advance Lift Stock Prices To New Highs

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The stock market hit a new high today with some strong gains registered.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 70 cents at a new high of $137.40, the best mark since Oct. 18, 1929.

For some months, the market has been attaining new 25-year highs, and a week ago Friday it touched a new peak. Thereafter it declined moderately. For the last three sessions the market advanced to the new high mark today.

Most key divisions were ahead at the close. The motors and electrical equipments were a sagging exception.

Here are some of the larger gains and closing prices:
Homestake Mining up 5 1/4 at 5 1/4, Lee Rubber up 2 1/4 at 73, Rohr Aircraft up 2 1/4 at 28 1/4, Bendix Aviation up 1/2 at 97, Kennecott Copper up 2 1/4 at 90, Gillette up 2 1/4 at 70 1/4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks in adding 70 cents at $137.40 was boosted along by the industrial component which rose 70 cents at a new high of $189.30, and by a gain of $1.10 in the railroads. The utilities held unchanged.

Henryville Man Given Promotion

MAJ. BERNARD Londner, son of Mrs. Jennie Londner, Henryville, recently reported to the Transportation Research and Development Command, Fort Eustis, Va. Maj. Londner, who received a promotion to his present rank on Sept. 17, 1954, has been assigned to the Comptroller Division of TRADCOM as a management analyst.

After completing two and one-half years at the City College of New York, Londner was drafted into the Army in 1942. He received a commission through Officer's Candidate School in 1943, and served as Marine personnel officer at the Port of Embarkation, Seattle, Wash., until his discharge in 1945. Londner then became co-owner of a chain of movie theaters in New York.

Called back into the service in 1951, Maj. Londner was sent to the Far East. Prior to being assigned to TRADCOM, he was management officer of the Second Transportation Port Command C in Japan. He attended the Comptroller Staff Officer Course, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., in 1951, and has received the Korean and United Nations Service medals.

Londner is married to the former Miss Rita Ungar, Brooklyn, N. Y., and the couple now resides in Warwick County, Va.

Margaret Plans West Indies Visit

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP) — Pretty Princess Margaret, who likes to dance, sing and stay up late, is going early next year to visit the West Indies, where they do all these things in abundance.

An official announcement yesterday from Clarence House — her London home — said the 24-year-old princess would stop off at Trinidad, home of calypso music, and other of the British islands in the Caribbean Sea.

Margaret will travel in the royal yacht Britannia and another of her haunts will be at the Bahamas, 150 miles off the Florida coast and about as close as she will ever have been to the United States.

333 Pupils Enrolled In Polk School

KRESGEVILLE — The largest enrollment in the history of Polk Township School has been recorded for the current school year.

According to Harry T. Young, supervising principal, total enrollment for the year is 333 students — 181 girls and 152 boys.

These are the enrollment figures by grades: grade one — 32; grade two — 27; grade three — 33; grade four — 26; grade five — 28; grade six — 26; grade seven — 28; grade eight — 17; grade nine — 27; grade ten — 31; grade 11 — 38; grade 12 — 20.

In addition to Polk township resident students enrolled in the school, students from Ross, Eldred and Chestnut Hill attend the school on a part-time basis only, to use the facilities of the Polk commercial department, Young said.

Plans Atomic Study

CHARLES E. OAKES, president of Pennsylvania Power & Light Co., has announced the utility has signed an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission granting PP&L the opportunity to proceed with studies, at its own expense, to determine what contributions the company might best make to the development and application of atomic power.
